Astro Kat Reigns Supreme Second Year

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The two-farm syndicate of Gay Ridge Farm and Kingstead Farms in Ijamsville, Md., are proving almost unstoppable at Pennsylvania and Maryland Holstein shows.

For four years straight they have shown the supreme champion animal of the All American Dairy Show.

For the second year in a row, entries from the two-farm syndicate have not only topped the Holstein contests, but came out as supreme cow among all breeds shown in both the All American Dairy Show and the Maryland State Fair.

Late last week, C Rossland Astro Kat, a 7-year-old Astro Jet daughter mutually owned by Gay Ridge Farm and Kingstead Farms, returned to repeat last year's performance of being named grand champion All American Holstein.

The cow — tall, long, with wide rear and ribs, muscular but not bulky, sharp featured, with strong legs and feet, long thin neck — not only captured the Holstein show, but also took the title of supreme cow of all dairy breeds, also a

Northeast Poultry Show Panel Highlights Salmonella Vaccine

ANDY ANDREWS

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Rodent control must be the number one priority for poultry producers, even if a tried-and-true vaccination program is employed, if Salmonella enteritidis (SE) is to be controlled in flocks.

That's the message producers heard on a panel highlighting the benefits of SE vaccinations at the Northeast Poultry Show on Thursday.

The poultry show included information on the latest research findings regarding vaccination of flocks.

Dr. Sherrill Davison, University of Pennsylvania, discussed research findings using two types of vaccines on eight flocks. In the study, the types used were autogenous (using SE obtained from the farm and incorporated into a vaccine, administered to the flock by skin injection) and federally licensed SE vaccine.

According to Davison, there were two reactions from the injections — in most cases, none, and in minor cases, examples of severe muscle necrosis. The eight layer flocks included seven multiage farms and one single-age farm.

In all cases, rodents (mice) were tested for SE, and in nearly all, the

Grumbine Named To Livestock Hall

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Each year the Pennsylvania Livestock Association presents its highest honor, the Livestock "Hall of Fame" award, to a deserving individual. The individual is chosen for his contribution to the industry, his contribution to the association, and his involvement in the community.

The 1992 recipient is Dennis Grumbine from Lebanon County. His association with the livestock industry began at an early age with both 4-H and FFA involvement. Raised on an Eastern Lebanon County farm, his projects included cash grain, livestock, and contract vegetables. From 1965-1966 he served as Pennsylvania state president of the Future Farmers of America.

One of Dennis' ambitions as a youth was to become involved in the farm machinery business. He started working for Elmer E. Plasterer, the John Deere dealer in Lebanon County in 1965 and purchased the dealership in 1983. Along with his involvement in the John Deere business, he maintains a continuous pure bred Berkshire swine herd operation, having sold hogs all over the country.

His involvement in the agricul-

Dr. Spock Says He Has Been Misquoted In Milk Controversy

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.)—The opponents of animal agriculture were at work again this week as the national news media picked up on the report of a group of physicians who say that milk may not be good for children.

Child care expert Dr. Benjamin Spock, who long advocated drinking cow's milk, joined several other doctors in questioning its nutritional value and the possible harm it can cause some children.

"Parents have been doing their duty as they were taught by medicine and dietetics and forcing milk on their children," Spock is quoted in the national press. "We have to get parents over that."

Spock appeared at a Boston news conference early this week as a spokesman for the Physicians Committee for Responsible Medicine, a nonprofit association that poses as a medical authority, though by its own admision only 10% of its members are bona-fide physicians. This association, along with other agendas, promotes alternatives to animal research.

Appearing with Dr. Spock was Dr. Frank A. Oski, director of pediatrics at Johns Hopkins University, and Dr. Neal Barnard, president of the Physicians Committee. Oski wrote a book against milk about 15 years ago, and Barnard, the Physicans Committee founder, is also the scientific advisor to People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA) and an organization known as the Animal Liberation Front (ALF).

In a news conference in Baltimore on Monday Oski said that milk's reputation as a calcium-rich food that will help children grow big and strong is largely undeserved. Other foods, such as kale, broccoli or fish, provide more calcium without the fat in milk, he said.

"There is nothing unique about milk, regarding its nutritional benefits, that should make you want to drink it," Oski said. "There's no reason for us to spend lots of money to give milk to kids when it doesn't do them any good."

Later in the week, The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, based in Syracuse, NY;

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—With the world hunger situation, we should be encouraging (agricultural) production, said Dan Quayle, vice president of the United States. The vice president's comments were part of a small news conference with reporters and editors from five selected Pennsylvania weekly newspapers in the Harrisburg Hilton last Saturday at noon.

"You can't just outlaw pesticides and insecticides," Quayle said. "You must make them more environmentally safe. If you listen

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Wednesday, September 30, 1992

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was mixed and selective. Offerings of 3 pound and up sizes were adequate and in fairly good balance; lighter weights were ample and slow in clearing. Slaughter schedules were heavy. Live supplies were moderate to light; weights were light to desirable. Less than trucklot asking prices were generally unchanged at 51 to 61 cents; however, some light sizes were available as low as 48 cents. Trade sentiment was about steady. Breast items remained available to a light and selective demand. Leg items continued to tighten, particularly leg quarters. Wings were fully adequate.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, September 30, 1992

Trucklot buying interest was irregular. Supplies of boneless skinless breasts were fully adequate for a very light retail demand. Prices trended lower. Line run breasts were available but buyers limited receipts to immediate needs and wait for the market to develop. Shipper asking prices trended lower but some buyers bid even lower Wings were available and slow to clear at current prices. Yellow skin leg quarters and thighs were in good balance with a fair demand and some buyer inquiries for next week deliveries were reported. Other items were adequate at steady prices.

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: Prices trended lower on all sizes in most areas in the East and in the Midwest, unchanged on the West Coast. The trade sentiment was cautiously steady to weak in most reporting areas; on the West Coast steady but the trade was concerned. Demand continued light to instances fairly good with the best call where features were in progress or planned for first of the month. Supplies of larger sizes were adequate to ample, mediums were adequate. Demand for light type hens was fair to good; supplies were in close balance; the trade sentiment was steady. Breaking stock prices were unchanged; demand was light; supplies were adequate to fully adequate; and, the undertone was steady at best.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

OCTOBER 5-11, 1992

FULL HUNTER'S MOON, OCTOBER 11

AN ASTRONOMER AND A CLOCKMAKER

Benjamin Banneker, whose death anniversary is October 9, was called the "first black man of science." He was an astronomer, clockmaker, mathematician, surveyor, and an almanac author. He was born near Baltimore, Maryland, in 1736 as a free man. He began making astronomical calculations for almanacs in 1773, and in 1789 he accurately predicted an eclipse. Between 1792 and 1802 he published a popular yearly almanac. He was part of the original survey of the city of Washington, wrote a dissertation on bees, played the violin, and built a clock out of wood. He also supported the peace movement and was a strong opponent of slavery. A fire on October 9, 1806, during his funeral, destroyed his home, and almost all of his belongings and documents.

We are all in the gutter, but some of us are looking at the stars...—Oscar Wilde

TIP OF THE WEEK

EARTHWISE

With cooler weather you might be burning wood again and ending up with ashes. Do you know how useful ashes really are? Ashes contain 50% to 75% lime and also potash and phosphorous, so by spreading them in your garden during the fall and winter, you'll benefit in the spring. During the growing season sprinkle ashes around plants in your garden to keep slugs and snails away. Keep ashes in the trunk of your car in the winter in case you need extra traction under your tires on slick roads. Mix ashes with salt and water for tough stove cement.

PUMPKIN SOUP

1 tablespoon butter
1 small onion, chopped fine
1 pound fresh pumpkin, steamed, drained, and pureed
2 cups chicken stock
¼ teaspoon thyme
1 bay leaf
1 cup cream
¼ cup dry sherry
chopped parsley or chives

Melt butter in soup kettle. Sauté onion until golden. Stir in pumpkin, stock, thyme, and bay leaf. Cook over low heat 15 minutes, stir occasionally, until smooth. Remove from heat and cool. Stir in cream and sherry, and heat. Remove bay leaf and garnish with chopped parsley or chives. Serves 4-6 people.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

NORTHEAST: Clear and pleasant, then warm with some showers.

SOUTHEAST: Sunny and cool; then cloudy and warmer, rain west and possible tropical storm Deep South.

MIDWEST: Clear and pleasant; then rain, heavy west, getting warmer.

NORTHWEST: Sunny and mild coast and mountains, intermittent rain east, then heavy rain and cooler, clear and warm east.

SOUTHWEST: Clear and warm, cold mountains, and sprinkles north; cloudy and much colder, heavy rain mountains.

OPINION

Illustrations Of What's Good In America

As youth around the country prepare to celebrate National 4-H Week, Oct. 4-10, recent surveys show that the country's young people are interested in more than talking on the phone or listening to the stereo.

"A recent Gallup poll blasts the notion that our young people aren't committed to helping others and improving their communities," says Dr. Robert Lewis, professor of 4-H youth in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. "This survey showed teens volunteering at the same rate as adults or higher. In 1989, 58 percent of American teens volunteered, compared with 54 percent of adults."

The 14- or 17-year-olds who responded to the survey said the stimulus came from extracurricular activities (79 percent), schools (52 percent) and churches (50 percent). Teens reported participating in areas of art, culture and humanities; education; human services; and environmental causes.

4-H is among the most important of the extracurricular activities that encourage youth to volunteer, says Lewis. "The 4-H program in Pennsylvania and across the nation encourages young people to be leaders in their communities," he says.

A nationwide total of 5.4 million youths, ages 8 to 19, take part in 4-H. In Pennsylvania, more than 150,000 young people participate in 4-H youth development programs.

"In 4-H, we recognize that teens have a great capacity for learning," he says. "They respond quickly to new ideas and opportunities for service. Teens also want a role in solving social, economic and political problems. They need a creative outlet for their energy."

Today, 4-H youths live in cities, suburbs and small towns as well as in rural areas. They learn subjects such as embryology, photography, nutrition and government, as well as animal science, home economics and other traditional 4-H project areas.

Through 4-H leadership programs, teens learn to plan and conduct programs and communicate effectively with a variety of audiences. At annual retreats and events such as Capital Days, they learn about citizenship and working within the political system to make a difference.

As a result of 4-H leadership development, many teens become involved in outreach programs for troubled youths, neighborhood crime watch programs and community health care and beautification programs.

"In 4-H, we even see kids inspiring their parents to become involved and serve as volunteer leaders," Lewis says.

"Volunteers improve their self-esteem, discover new talents and develop leadership skills," says Lewis. "Young people who volunteer can increase their chances of finding profitable employment. Volunteerism also can open career doors for adults. For older adults, volunteerism offers the opportunity to remain active and continue making a contribution to society."

Cooperative extension agents across the state work with volunteers in 4-H, agriculture, home economics and community development programs. The 4-H programs provide summary illustrations of what's good in America. Keep up the good work!

To Submit Century Farm Applications

Has your farm been in your family for 100 years or more? If so, then you are eligible to receive the Century Farm Award.

This program is administrated by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. To qualify as a Century Farm, the farm must have been owned by the same family for 100 consecutive years. A family member must currently live on the farm and the farm must consist of at least 10 acres of the original holding or gross more than $1,000 annually from the sale of farm products.

A lot of counties recognize their Century Farms at farm-city banquets. Lancaster County currently has 118 registered Century Farms.

If you are interested in becoming a Century Farm, applications are available at our office, 1383 Arcadia Road, Room 1, Lancaster, PA 17601 or by calling (717) 394-6851.

To Be Aware Of Acorn And Prussic Acid Toxicities

When fall arrives, dairy farmers need to become more aware of the risks of cattle being poisoned from consuming excess quantities of acorns or prussic acid.

To minimize these risks, be cautious about feeding cows frost-damaged sudangrass and sorghum-sudangrass crosses. Either ensile the frosted material and let it ferment for four weeks before feeding it or do not graze the frosted material for a week or so after the killing frost or until it has had a chance to turn completely brown.

Also, avoid grazing cattle near oak trees. To reduce the risk of cattle craving acorns, be sure they are well fed before turning them out to pasture.

To Transport Swine Safely

Chester Hughes, extension livestock agent, reminds us that safety and comfort should be of primary concern in transporting pigs.

Weak pigs should not be loaded or transported with healthy ones. Appropriate steps should be taken to segregate sick pigs and care for their special needs.

When pigs are transported, ventilation should be adequate and the floor should be slip-resistant. When possible, animals should be shipped in groups of uniform weight. Pigs of 50 pounds should have a minimum of 1.5 square feet per pig; 100 pound pigs, 2 square feet; and 250 pound pigs, 4 square feet.

Injuries and bruises may result in carcass damage when pigs are improperly managed during handling and transport. Transport and handling stresses may be aggravated by adverse weather and wide temperature fluctuations.

While in transit in warm weather, swine should be protected from heat stress by being shaded, wetted, and bedded with wet sand or shavings. Prompt unloading in hot weather is essential because heat builds up rapidly in a stationary vehicle.

During transportation in cold weather, pigs should be protected from cold stress. Wind protection should be provided when air temperature drops below 32 degrees Fahrenheit, but with adequate ventilation. When trucking pigs in cold weather, pigs should be bedded with chopped straw or other material that has insulating properties.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ARE WE ELECTING GOD?

October 4, 1992

Background Scripture:
1 Samuel 7:15 through 8:22.
Devotional Reading:
1 Samuel 8:10-18.

By the time you read this, the Presidential election campaign will be even more intense than it is now, two months earlier. I am always amazed at the tremendous amount of emotion and fervor that is generated by a political campaign, even at a time in our history when more and more people are turned-off from the whole process. The politician seems to work on the premise that the electorate is more likely to be swayed by emotion and prejudice than reason and honesty. (Of course, if we the electorate were ever to respond differently, the politician might be forced to change his or her appeal).

It is frequently reported that the electorate is fed up with politics because what we are getting is not what we need, either individually or as a country. But perhaps the problem is, not that we are not getting what we deserve, but that we are. Let me suggest that what makes our political life so odious to us is that it reflects the real values of our culture. In other words, the politician may be not more than our next door neighbor—or the person we see in the bathroom mirror every morning—under the bright light of public scrutiny. Isn't it likely that, if the level of our national morality were higher, would be our politics?

GOD REJECTED?

I have always had some difficulty with what is reported to be the attitude of God in this portion of the story of Samuel. The people say they are fed up with the corruption of Samuel's two sons. so what could be more reasonable than for them to want a king to improve the quality of government? Why does God assume that their desire for strong leadership is a rejection of himself? "For they have not rejected you, but they have rejected me from being king over them"(8:7). I'm not at all sure that some of the antimonarchical prejudice of the writer of I Samuel doesn't slip into this story. But, perhaps God is critical, not of their desire for human leadership, but of their expectations of it. Having a king is not the solution to all their problems. In fact, it may turn out to be the expansion of them.

Is that not true of us, too: that we expect too much of human leadership? Look at the reasons the people give:"...that we also may be like all the nations, and that our king may govern us and go out before us and fight our battles"(8:20). Someone to "fight our battles" for us. So that we may be "like all the nations." That is what they were looking for, but not what they would get.

THE DRIVE FOR POWER

Samuel is careful to outline just what is likely to happen if they choose a king: "These will be the ways of the king who will reign over you..." In order to have a king or any kind of leader, they must give that person power. Power is what it takes to get the job done. But the problem is that, once a person gains power, he or she is likely to be corrupted by it. Arnold Hutschnecker, M.D., observes: "Every single human...has within him or her a drive for power, a force that can help unfold the potentials inherent in a personality. This force can lead to fulfillment or failure, happiness or misery, depending on the individual's set of values...For it is the direction of the power drive that leads one man to create—and another to kill" (The Drive for Power M. Evans & Co., NY, 1974).

The question is not whether we shall have human leadership and the power that goes with it, but what we do with that power that belongs, not to a king or a President, but to all of us. Let us elect a President and other leaders for our land. But let us never expect from these leaders what we are unwilling to expect of ourselves. And let us never forget that salvation comes from no leader or party, but from God alone.

Gov. Casey Strikes Again

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Rural Pennsylvania was given another setback recently when Gov. Robert Casey sequestered many of the funds originally set aside for rural programs in the 1992-93 budget, according to representatives of the Pennsylvania State Grange.

Gov. Casey sequestered the total budget of $724,000 set aside for legislation recently passed that would establish a loan forgiveness program for agriculture and veterinary students who agreed to work on a family farm or in a rural area, respectively.

"It is vital that we attract our college graduates to family farms and rural areas," said Brenda Shambaugh, legislative director for the Pennsylvania State Grange. "We need talented people like them to give a boost to our rural economies. The governor's sequestering of these funds couldn't have come at a worse time."

Other areas were also affected by the sequestering of funds: $50,000 is being held from Animal Indemnities program; the entire budget of $97,000 is being held from mushroom promotion; the entire budget of $48,000 is being held from the Emergency Apple Marketing; $177,000 is being held from Higher Education Rural Initiatives; the entire budget appropriation of $39,000 is being held from FFA Foundation; and $163,000 out of the original budget of $193,000 is being held from Rural Leadership Training.

The Pennsylvania State Grange is urging the governor to release these funds, according to Shambaugh.

The Pennsylvania State Grange represents 35,000 rural Pennsylvanians on issues such as agriculture, health care, education, local roads and bridges, and rural development. This year marks the 125th anniversary of the National Grange's service to the community.

Fixed competitive payments
Flexible payment schedules
Year-end tax planning
100% deductibility

Some people get all the breaks.

Put the breaks on your tax bill. Get your equipment with a true tax lease by December 31 and your payments are 100% tax-deductible as an operating expense. Plus, with an annual payment schedule, you can benefit from a large tax write-off this year and not make a second payment for as many as 12 full months.

You'll have several more good reasons to look forward to a happy new year. You can lock in your order now and take delivery in 1993. You'll enjoy fixed, competitive payments and can choose a payment schedule that allows you to skip payments in the months or season of lowest income. You also can get whatever you want right now without jeopardizing your ability to fully depreciate other assets bought earlier in the year.

Find out how lease financing can help you get all the year-end breaks you deserve. Contact your local Telmark representative today, or call 315-449-7964.

Lampeter Champions

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.)—At the Lampeter Fair Livestock Sale last Friday night, bidding was brisk on the champions as the new exhibition building was used for the first time. Jay Hess had the grand champion FFA steer that sold to Witmer's IGA for $2.06 per lb. for a total of $2,575 on the 1,250 lb. steer.

The grand champion 4-H steer, shown by Dwain Livengood, brought only .02 cents less. Purchased by H.C. Rineer for $2.04 per lb., Livengood's steer totaled $2,805.

Matt Welk's grand champion FFA hog sold to Stonehurst Farm for $4.22 per lb., and Eric Charles sold his grand champion 4-H hog to Keystone Farm Credit for $4.11 per lb.

In the market lamb sale, P. L. Rohrer paid $4.50 per lb. for Lisa Reiff's 4-H grand champion, and Stonehurst Farm and The Cattle Exchange combined efforts to pay $4.10 per lb. for Jill Harnish's grand champion FFA lamb.

Perry County Girl Wins $500

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Colleen Kretzing, a member of the Perry County 4-H Dairy Club, picked up a $500 scholarship at the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show last week.

She was the high scoring individual in the Junior Dairyman Contest held at the Farm Show Complex. Colleen scored 409 points, enough to beat her team mate Marel Raub, who earned 396 points. Marel earned herself a $100 scholarship.

The contest gave the young contestants a great opportunity to see and judge top quality dairy cattle, practice their dairy management skills, and gain valuable experience in evaluation and decision making skills.

Third through fifth place for individual scores went to Jason Boughman of the Milksquirts 4-H Club, Somerset County; Emily Hill, Canaseraga Active Achievers 4-H Club; and Bryan Wilson, Canaseraga Active Achievers 4-H Club.

The Perry County 4-H Dairy Club had the highest team score in the 4-H division. Contributing to the 1,139 points with Kretzing and Raub were Meranda Dum and Liza Haas.

Second and third place in the 4-H team scores were the Milksquirts 4-H Club with a score of 1,003 and the Canaseraga Active Achievers from New York with 979.

In the FFA team judging, it was Chambersburg High School's FFA picking up the win with 927 points. Their team included Donald Harwood, Andy Myers and Daryl Hull. They handily beat their competition, Tulpehocken (Berks County) with 875 points and Jasper Treupsburg FFA (New York) with 852 points.

The contest had 10 classes: sire selection, replacement selection, meats identification, forage and grain identification, milk quality, reproductive management, dairy products, current issues, calf health and farm management.

Cash premiums were sponsored by Church and Dwight of Arm and Hammer Ag Products, along with the Pfizer Animal Health Division. A luncheon was sponsored by Franklin Laboratories.

Northeast Poultry Show

mice tested positive for SE after the vaccines were administered. In the cases of mice testing positive for SE, the flock also returned to testing positive for SE (however, all the eggs tested were SE-free).

Dr. Dave Kradel, director of the SE Voluntary Program in Lancaster, indicated that rodent control should be the number one priority of all poultry managers. He said that, in one case where mice were tested, 87 percent tested positive for SE.

And because much of the flock is often missed in injection, failure to properly clean the house and rid the house of rodents only sustains the problem, according to research undertaken by Dr. Sam Schmittle, consultant. He said rodent control and biosecurity themselves will not get the work done, and the vaccine should be used only to augment proper SE control programs.

Dr. Ken Eskelund, president of Maine Biological Laboratories, released research on a commercial autogenous vaccine that was implemented in seven layer houses (each about 90,000 birds per house). SE was removed from the flocks after proper depopulation, disinfection, repopulation, and using the vaccine were employed.

But Eskelund said clients are told that they are responsible for "98 percent of the success" in keeping out SE. Conducting a proper rodent control program is "most important," he said, outlining various steps to ensuring an SE-free environment for birds. They advocate not using the vaccine routinely, but as an adjunct to an SE-control program.

The show's keynote speaker's personal opinion is that President Bush may be only an "accidental" leader who derives any success he has from riding the coattails of his predecessor's success.

That's the opinion of Eleanor Clift, Washington correspondent for Newsweek magazine, as she addressed members of the Northeast Poultry Show Wednesday.

Clift, who has been covering the Washington beat for two decades, said that it is the economy which is driving the election. The candidates could win the election using the battleground of the proposed upcoming debates.

"My feeling about George Bush is that, in many ways, he is an 'accidental' president," she said. "He was the vice president for eight years and he is really the extension of Ronald Reagan. It's the Reagon-Bush years. And there has been a third term here of Ronald Reagon-George Bush. And it's very hard for anyone to win a fourth term."

Eleanor Clift

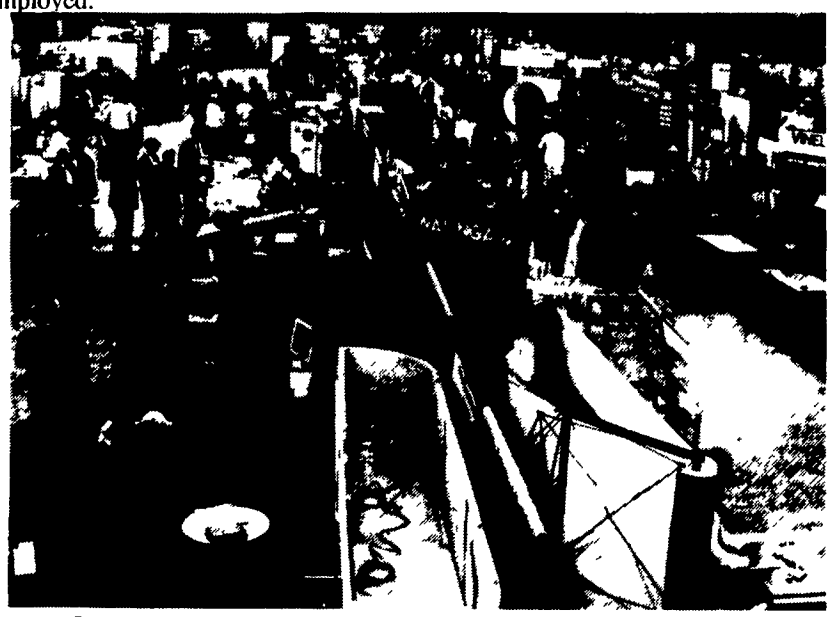
She was careful to point out the strengths and weaknesses of each of the candidates, including frontrunner Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton and the wildcard, on-again, off-again candidacy of Texas billionaire Ross Perot.

"I don't think the public is going to vote on either Bill Clinton's draft record or what the president knew or didn't know about about the Iran/Contra arms sale," she said, although pointed to a new Newsweek poll that determined the public is "far more concerned" about the Iran/Contra scandal that about Clinton's draft record.

But Clift considers Bush's announcement this week of proposing four presidential debates and two vice president debates on consecutive Sundays (the last one the Sunday before election) as a "bold step."

For Bush or Clinton to win, the debates would be the final battleground.

The poultry show also included information on vaccination for Salmonella enteritidis (SE) and some of the research findings regarding vaccination of flocks in a panel moderated by Dr. Dave Kradel, SE program, far right. From left, Dr. Sherrill Davison, University of Pa.; Dr. Sam Schmittle, consultant, Biomune Company, Lenexa, Kan.; Dr. Ken Eskelund, president, Maine Biological Laboratories; and Kradel.



The Northeast Poultry Show also hosted a trade conference in Lancaster this week.

X-FOLD PULVERIZERS

Crush clods and firm the soil for better contact between seeds and soil.

Brillion has manufactured Pulverizers since 1895 and dominates the market today. Part of that success is because the roller wheels are made in Brillion's own modern foundry. That gives Brillion a big advantage in quality and price.

There's lots more reasons to buy Brillion...stop in and we'll talk.

ADC Names Quality Award Winners

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Atlantic Dairy Cooperative will present its 1992 Quality Premium Award to 34 members who earned the cooperative's quality milk bonus at 12 months of the 1991-1992 fiscal year.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative represents more than 3,500 dairy farm families in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

"This award recognizes members who consistently produce high quality milk for the cooperative," said Don m. Breiner, Atlantic's quality and field services manager. "We commend these producers for their commitment to quality."

During the past fiscal year, which ended July 31, Atlantic paid out $1.89 million in quality milk bonuses. On the average, 38 percent of the cooperative's membership earned the extra payments throughout the year.

Begun in 1987, the quality premium program provides a financial incentive to members to produce high quality milk. Members must meet a series of seven quality standards set by the cooperative to obtain the bonus. The premium itself is paid out on a two-tier level based on per hundredweight production.

The 34 award winners will receive a plaque during their local and district meetings this fall and next spring.

In District 1, David A. and Sharon K. Bishop, Doylestown, and Samuel W. Morris, Pottstown, were premium winners.

In District 2 Lester C. Jones & Sons Inc., Medford, N.J., John F. Hubschmidt, Bridgeton, N.J. and Ella V. Eachus, Mullica Hill, N.J., won.

In District 3, Jospeh L. and Joseph H. DeLong, Quarryville, and Edward L. and Edd W. Zug Jr., of Peach Bottom, won.

In District 5 David S. Hess, Lancaster, won.

In District 9 Marvin Bennetch, Myerstown, and James B. Siegrist, Wernersville were winners.

In District 10 John T. and Julie A. Mayer, Taneytown, Md, William R. Powell III and Herman E. Bendig, Union Bridge, Md. and Karl K. and Bonnie L. Wantz, Taneytown, Md. won.

In District 13 Geary E. and Judy F. Shade, Alexandria are to receive a plaque.

In District 15, D. Sharpe and Donald E. Keller of Chambersburg won.

In District 16, Vincent W. and Dean Lobaugh, Aspers, Gene E. Sauble and Harold F. Weaver, York Springs, and Robert H. Jamison, Carlisle were winners.

In District 18, Albert M. Berg Jr., Mt. Pleasant Mills, Robert D. and Linda J. Loy, Loysville, and Jesse E. and Barbara J. Singleton, Landisburg are to receive plaques.

In District 20, Joe E. Amick, Martinsburg, Thomas J. Brodzina, Altoona and Randall and Karen Huntsman, Martinsburg won.

In District 21, Blair L. and Mary J. Bennett of Everett; in District 22 H. Carlyle Russel of Rome, and in District 23, Leland G. Loomis, of Forrest City, and William and Elizabeth Smith, Montrose are also to be recognized.

ITACHA, NY — A normal part of a cow's lactational cycle is a dry period. Although this is a non-productive period, it is critical to optimize producition in the subsequent lactation. A short dry period will result in fewer mammary cells and, consequently, lower production. A long dry period is often detrimental not only because it is expensive to maintain a dry cow, but also because subsequent milk production will likely be reduced due to over conditioning. Unfortunately, there is not a clear recommendation for dry period length. Futhermore, the optimal dry period is probably different on every farm. Animals that end a lactation with mastitis and under conditioned may benefit from a longer dry period than animals that dry off free of mastitis and with good body condition. Most literature cites a 60 day dry period as ideal. It is also generallly accepted that first lactation animals require a longer dry period than mature cows since they are still growing. The change in 305 milk production compared to a 60-70 day dry period is shown in Figure 1.

During the past year, I began to notice that a number of herds had shorter days dry in their first lactation animals compared to the mature cows. So, I decided to take a peek into the NeDHIA database. I found that the average days dry for first lactation animals approximately 56 days while the average drys dry for the mature cows is 65 days. What was more surprising was that 20% of the herds have days dry for the first lactation animals less than 50 days. There are probalby two explanations for the shorter days dry in the first lacatation cows. First lactation animals tend to have a shorter gestation (approximately 3 days) than mature cows. This would be reflected in days dry if a uniform gestation length was used to project freshening. The larger explanation is probably that first lactation animals are more persistent and managers delay drying them off. Nonetheless, these shorter dry periods between the first and second lactation can be a cause of what is often termed SOPHOMORE SLUMP.

Make sure that you check your yearly average days dry. It is also important to check the distribution of animals. The values for the Cornell dairy herd are listed below. This box can be found on the back side of the Herd Summary report or it can be gernerated using the 12-1 option in RMS. Yes, we are guilty of the same trend as seen in the industry.

"I thought I was a tough guy. And I'd been using PTO's for years. But I found out I was no match for an unprotected PTO Sure, I suffered some, but I managed—my family suffered a lot more Not only the doctor's bills, but caring for me through all the pain and hospital visits. Now, things I can't do with one arm have to be done by my wife or my kids But there's no way I want to put them in the same danger I put myself in every day Thankfully, at long last, somebody's designed a PTO guard that really guards."

Astro Kat Reigns

repeat of last year.

The animal is owned by Donald and Mary Louise Wilcom, sons Greg and Danny from Gay Ridge Farm and by Mary Douglas, Jane, Irving and Harold King of Kingstead Farms.

Early September, Astro Kat's herdmade, C Aitenbrae Starbuck Ada, also owned by Gay Ridge and Kingstead Farms, was named supreme champion of the Maryland State Fair.

Kat's classification score is an Excellent 97. On a 365-day lactation record, started as a 5-year-old, she made 35,000 pounds of milk and 1,600 pounds of fat. Her sire is Briden Astro Jet-ET and her dam was Greendell Warden Kitty.

During the selection for supreme champion, when all the grand champions are brought into the ring of the Large Arena of the Farm Show Complex, judges again selected Kat as supreme, but declared that Top Acres Simon Starglo, the grand champion Brown Swiss, was runner up.

The reserve senior and grand champion of the Holstein show was C Merkley Starbuck Whitney, a 4-year-old owned by Deb Frasier, of Bridgewater, Connecticut.

Maryland Families Star In Guernsey Show

The show was one of six national breed shows held in conjunction with the 29th Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show in Harrisburg.

"My brother John and I both grew up on the farm, which has been in the family since 1845," William said. "We've been in partnership since 1984. Our herd is entirely Guernsey; we currently milk 80 cows and have 70 young stock."

They brought their best seven cows and three heifers to the All-American and earned several blue ribbons.

"This is the first time we've ever been named premier breeder or premier exhibitor at the All-American," he continued, "so it was quite a surprise. And it's really special to us, since this is the national show."

The reserve champion female was "Crown Stone Playboy Whisper," owned and exhibited by William's son Mark Schnebly.

The grand champion female, "Wincrest Fayette Valerie," was exhibited by the Dan and Lorette Mitheofer Family of Claypool, Indiana. They also had the junior champion female, "Gr-Leslen Frank Heather."

The reserve junior champion female was "OCS Dairy Diodora Lilfoot," shown by Crystal and Clay Smith of Jefferson, Maryland.

Canadian Farm Shows Ayrshire Champions

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "Bonnie Brae Lacey" and "Bonnie Brae Parfait" brought grand champion female and reserve grand champion female honors to the Mode Brothers of Providence, Canada, during the Eastern National Ayrshire Show.

The show was one of six national shows held during the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg last week.

Lacey and Parfait also placed one and two in the 4-year-old cow class, best senior female bred and owned by the exhibitor, and senior champion class.

Mode Brothers earned the distinguished honors for premier breeder and had the premier sire of the show. They exhibited the reserve junior champion female, "Bonnie Brae JJ Cabana," and best three females earlier in the show.

The junior champion was "Maple Dell IRS Sweet Nine," exhibited by David and James Patrick of Woodbine, Maryland.

Douglas Evans of Georgetown, New York, picked up the banner for premier exhibitor.

The All-American, a premier showcase of dairy cattle with 2,300 entries this year, is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and Pennsylvania Farm Products Show Commission.

Stiles's Entries Sweep Jersey Show

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Stiles family from Clearbrook, Va., showed the grand and reserve grand champion Jersey of the 1992 Mid-Atlantic Regional Jersey Show last week at the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex and also took home both the premier breeder and premier exhibitor awards.

Last year, Paul Stiles also stood in the center ring with the grand champion Jersey, but last year he was showing for Clover Hills West, of Strauton, Va.

This time, Paul stood at halter with aged cow JRS Volunteer Britani, owned by Waverly Farm, which is another name for Ken, Mike, Paul and Tracy Stiles.

Britani is a 7-year-old Mayfield Volunteer daughter and was bred by Randy Stiles. She posted a 305-day lactation record — started at 5 years, 9 months old — of 16,427 pounds of milk.

Stiles's reserve grand champion was Waverly Farm Justin Canary, a senior 2-year-old cow sired by a Waverly Farm sire, WF Generator Justin.

In numerous classes, entries from Waverly Farm placed among the top three, in some classes taking first and second.

The Stiles also went home with the best dairy herd; the best three cows; all top three places in the best senior female bred and owned class; get-of-sire; and premier sire, among the more prestigous classes.

The junior champion animal was Hillacres Toptin Minday, an intermediate calf shown by Tom Arrowsmith of Peach Bottom. She was also the best junior animal bred and owned.

The reserve junior champion was Bell Chest Missie, a junior yearling heifer owned by Wayne and Allen Stiles, of Spring Valley Farm, Westminster, Md.

Judge for the show was judged by Dennis Patrick of Maple Dell Farm, in Woodbine, Maryland.

PaDHIA Revises Award

The Herd Management Award was revised by adding a new category in Section II, Sustained Production.

The calculation procedure subracts this year's breed average for milk production from the herd's RHA for milk production this year and gives 2 points for every 1,000 pounds above the breed average and adds the last three years' points. Protein and butterfat are calculated the same as milk production and assigned one point for every 50 pounds above breed average.

Another change was made to Section I under the Production Improvement category. Average Days to Peak Milk Production calculates the average number of days from freshening until peak milk production is reached for all cows calving in the herd.

The assignment of points are: 46-52 Days (Ideal Range)- 5 points earned; 40-45 or 52-57- 4 points earned; 34-39 or 58-63- 3 points earned; 28-33 or 64-69- 2 points earned; less than 28 or more than 69- 1 point earned.

Section IV, Reproductive Management, was changed from last year. Additional qualifications to earn points you had to have at least 10 heifers freshened in the herd during the year was eliminated. A couple other changes under this section are as follows.

Average service per pregnancy for all pregnant cows, using the average services per pregnancy for the pregnant group as of Sept. 30: Less than 1.5- 4 points earned; 1.5 - 1.6- 3 points earned; 1.7 - 1.8- 2 points earned; 1.9 - 2.0- 1 point earned; More than 2.0- 0 point earned.

The Herd Management Award for 1992 and the Qualification to Earn Points sheet will be sent out to all members, except for the counties holding their county annual banquet before Nov. 16.

For those counties that have reported to us their annual banquet date, we will be sending their award to the county extension office to distribute to the members the night of the banquet.

Changes to Herd Management Award 92 were approved by the Pa DHIA Board for the 1992 cow year.

Summary II Continues

In January, PA DHIA released to its members a new "Herd Summary II." Each dairyman was instructed that on Oct. 1, 1992 they would need to make a choice which herd summary they would like to continue receiving or if they would like to receive both herd summaries.

We are now announcing that, until Jan. 1, the Herd Summary II will continue to go out at no additional fee. In line with that, the deadline on deciding which summary is desired is also extended until Jan. 1.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

My corn acres are planted to hybrids that pass my test.

I've learned over the years that almost everything works better if I have a plan; and that includes deciding which hybrids should go on the bulk of my corn acres. That's why no new hybrid makes it into my "permanent" lineup until I've seen it on my own farm for at least two years.

Take my Jacques 7820, for example. I started with it because it looked good on a neighbor's place all season long. Well, the two years I tested it were about as different from each other as any two years could be. But both times, 7820 was right up at the top in yields and acted like it was bred just for those conditions.

That made me wonder if I really needed to do my own testing – but I like the extra level of confidence it gives me.

So I'm still doing it. This year, my new one is Jacques 7970 and it'll get its chance at more acres if it outperforms the hybrid I'm comparing it against. I'll admit it's not a real complicated system; but it works for me.

Chester County Farmer Wins Award

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Representative Bob Walker this week announced that Charles H. Gable, owner and operator of Conebella Farm in Chester County, has been awarded the Theodore Roosevelt Conservation Award from the House Republican Reserach Committee's Project 102.

Gable joined Walker at a White House ceremony and luncheon here Thursday, where Gable was honored along with recipients of the award from across the country. This is the second year of the biannual Theodore Roosevelt Awards. The national award program, supported by President Bush and sponsored by the House Republican Research Committee, was designed to recognize local volunteer environmental efforts in individual congressional districts.

Walker nominated Gable due to his vigorous conservation efforts throughout his distinguished career in agriculture. Gable operates Conebella Farm with his son, Donald, where they also breed and raise registered Ayrshire Cattle. Active in the National Ayrshire Breeders Association, Gable received his 35th consecutive Constructive Breeder Award for type and production. In 1988, his family hosted the World Conference of the Ayrshire Breeders group at Conebella Farm. Gable also serves as Director of the National Association.

Long active in conservation efforts, Conebella Farm's 198 acres have 7920 feet of terraces and 2150 feet of waterways. These efforts earned Gable the 1986 Conservation Farmer of the Year Award from the Chester County Conservation District. In 1976, he was appointed to the Chester County Water Resources Authority, on which he served until 1989. Additionally, he currently serves on the Chester County Land Preservation Board, which purchases development rights from local farmers, a position to which he was appointed in 1989.

Gable has served as a Republican Committeeman since 1963, and as a Chester County Area Chairman for the last 20 years. Besides his son, Donald, Gable, age 61, and his wife, Josephine L., have one daughter, Carol, and a grandson, Joshua.

Vice President Dan Quayle

to some environmental regulators, they want to regulate everything with a no growth agenda."

However, Quayle said farmers don't want a no growth agenda. They want more markets, more exports and they want net farm income to go up.

"I think we can (both) preserve the environment and encourage the opportunities for our farmers," Quayle said. "For example, we must use common sense when it comes to wetlands. You can't just have every puddle declared a wetland and then take it away from the farmer and out of production."

On the other hand, the vice president said that President Bush had a "no net loss" program for wetlands.

Quayle said his adminstration has a different view of agriculture than his opponents, with the main difference in the desire for regulations. Speaking of Bill Clinton, the Democratic nominee for president, Quayle said Clinton will use the heavy hand of government, while the present administration, if reelected, will use the heavy hand of creating export opportunities. The vice president said Clinton will be much more inclined to regulate and have a managed farm economy while the Bush adminstration will look more to production because the world needs the food.

Quayle used the example of the Carter adminstration's infamous grain embargo that farmers despised and said he thought Bill Clinton had the same philosophy.

"Bill Clinton doesn't talk much about agriculture," Quayle said. "Whenever he does talk about it, I don't think he knows much about it."

Because the news conference was arranged for the weekend, one of the reporters was accompanied by her small baby. The baby took the spotlight when an official press badge was placed over the baby's chubby arm. As the vice president entered the room, he first greeted the baby, made a comment about family values, an issue he has openly addressed, and humorously asked if the baby was registered to vote.

And the incident prompted the first question to the vice president from a reporter about if reelected, would he continue to lobby Hollywood's "cultural elete" to better reflect America's traditional family values.

"I will continue to speak out for traditional values," Quayle said. "I will ask Hollywood to better reflect our values.

"We have made a lot of progress. Before I started to speak up, they dismissed the idea. But even the liberals know they are not reflecting America's values. Their pictures can be better. They can be more decent with more common sense and more of a reflection of what America is about.

"The same with TV," the vice president continued. "A while back, in an interview with David Brinkly, a Hollywood actress said she would not allow her children to watch because it was so bad. You know it's bad when the left wing of Hollywood will not let their children watch.

"We are talking about strengthening families even though some say we should not talk about traditional values. The American people understand the importance of traditional values and how these values are even related to economic growth."

Quayle said the American family is being battered and labeled our education as not "value based." He said the adminstration's program for youth to "just say no to drugs" was ridiculed by the left wing as a silly proposal. But he said that as a result of this program, our young people are using less drugs today than they were a decade ago.

"Families should be encouraged to stay together and give the children priority. Think of the children first," Quayle said.

The vice president didn't think the issues for rural areas and small towns was any different than for urban Americans in large cities. He cited the desires of the people for renewal through lower taxes and less government.

"Rural people are apprehensive about what big governmnet can and should do," Quayle said. "They want incentives through tax credits, they want families to be strengthened, and they want to be free from a lot of inspectors and regulation people coming in from the outside.

So in the rural communities, our program of smaller government, lower taxes, and less regulation will be very compatible with their desires," Quayle said.

PennAg Officers Named

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — PennAg Industries Association, an Ephrata-based agribusiness trade organization representing over 500 firms, recently elected its officers for 1993. At New Holland, Extremely Close Swine Contest Goes To Good

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — The hog that the judge picked reserve simply got into a championship "dogfight with a bigger dog," he said.

According to the New Holland Farm Show swine judge, the "bigger dog" simply had more going for it in an extremely close contest, said Larry Arnold, Womelsdorf.

The supreme hog, shown Tuesday night by veteran swine exhibitor Kurtis Good, 19, Denver, was picked out of a litter from a Maryland breeder and won its class out of the heavyweight division. The 260-pound York/Hamp/Duroc gilt bested a 250-pound York/Hamp gilt shown by Sarah Boyd, 11, Clay.

Kurtis, son of Ezra and Elsie Good, has been showing for about 12 years. This is his final year of showing — his last swine competition will be during the junior hog show at the state farm show in January.

A 1991 Lancaster Mennonite High School graduate, Kurtis works for his father, Ezra Good, at Good's Receiving Station. Kurtis said he will miss being able to show, but would like to return as a show judge. He represents the pork industry as a pork ambassador.

Sarah Boyd, 11, is the daughter of Kerry and Deb Boyd, Clay. Sarah showed "Sadie," a 250-pound York/Hampshire gilt. The gilt, said Sarah, was obtained from Rich and Steve Strauss, Durlach.

Show announcer Tony Folker said "this was probably our best hog show ever, for the quality of the hogs and the weight ranges of the hogs." In all, there were a total of 55 head of swine and 21 exhibitors.

Following is a list of show placings.

New Row Crop Sprayer Shown

EAST PETERSBURG (Lancaster Co.)—A demonstration of the new rugged high performance row crop applicators occurred here Thursday by the Ag-Chem Equipment Co., Inc., with offices in East Petersburg and manufacturing and corporate offices in Minnetonka, MN.

Skip Brown, sales representative, said the new self-propelled row crop sprayer was designed as a post application machine to better apply a recipe of herbicides when needed. This call for special application has come from the industry, which is waiting for feedback from users since the prototype machines seen this week have been in the field since May across the U.S.

The information that has been obtained from these demonstrations have been incorporated into the design of the RoGator 663 and 664 and will be included in production of the first units scheduled to start this month.

The RoGater has 42" crop clearance for post-emerg applications. The boom length is 60' wide, and the tank capacity is 660 gallons. The small wheel motors let the operator see the crop and help to get the machine in and out of the fields with minimal canopy disturbance.

Local representatives, in addition to Brown, include John Ashline, manager, and Jack Harrison, regional manager. They cover the area from South Carolina to Maine.

The new RoGator 664 self-propelled row crop sprayer is demonstrated by Skip Brown of Ag-Chem.

PDA Offers Grants To Youth

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program has scheduled meetings for local promotion organizations that receive direct funding for promotion activities. The meetings will be held in five locations throughout the state and committees must attend these meetings to receive funds for the January to June 1993 funding period.

"We have revised and simplified our local funding program and needed to review these changes with volunteer promoters," said Nadine Houck, PDPP promotions specialist. "The meetings will also include updates about dairy marketing activities and promotional ideas for the coming year."

Meetings are scheduled for the following dates and locations: October 5, the Clarion Clipper, in Clarion (Exit 9 of I-80); October 6, the Days Inn, New Stanton (Exit 26 of I-70); October 7, Shoney's Restaurant, State College (Business Route 322 East); October 8, Sinbad's Restaurant, Towanda (Route 6 East); and October 13, the Holiday Inn, Denver (Exit 21 of PA Turnpike).

All of the meetings will begin at 5:30 p.m., followed by dinner. Reservations for the meetings are required and must be made by September 25. Telephone reservations can be made by calling the PDPP at (717) 787-6903.

Hanover Resident Earns NDB Scholarship

ARLINGTON, Va. — Aimee Eopechino of Hanover, Penn. was recently named a recipient of a National Dairy Promotion and Research Board undergraduate scholarship.

Eopechino, a graduate of Conestoga Valley High School, was one of 21 college juniors and seniors from across the country to receive a $1,500 scholarship for the 1992-93 school year. She was awarded the scholarship based on her dedication to the dairy industry, academic performance and leadership.

The daughter of Al and Carm Eopechino, Eopechino is a junior at Pennsylvania State University majoring in food science.

Eopechino has made the dean's list, is a member of Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society, Phi Sigma Iota Foreign Language Honor Society and enrolled in Penn State's honors program. That program admits only the top 3 percent of students.

Her interest in dairying has been fostered by her participation in dairy products judging at Penn State. At a national dairy products judging competition in Chicago, Eopechino placed fifth high individual in the milks category.

To gain more dairy foods experience, Eopechino has worked as a research assistant in Penn State's milk quality testing lab. She expanded on that experience by working as an intern in research and development at Haagen Dazs last summer.

At Penn State, Eopechino is a member of the Dairy and Food Science clubs and served as an officer of the Ag Student Council. She is also a member of the Institute of Food Technologists.

"The dairy farmers serving on the National Dairy Board believe these scholarships are a good investment for the dairy industry," said Raymond Johnson, a Schaghticoke, N.Y. dairy farmer and chair of the National Dairy Board's Dairy Foods and Nutrition Research Committee.

"These young people will help create the quality dairy products we need to remain competitive with the other foods consumers can choose to buy and eat."

The National Dairy Board, comprised of 36 dairy farmers from across the nation, develops and administers a coordinated program of promotion, research and nutrition communications to strengthen the dairy industry's position in the marketplace. This effort is financed by America's dairy farmers.

the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program in Harrisburg, and the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association, Towson, Maryland, issued statements in rebuttal to the recommendations by the Physicians Committee.

"The statements by the Physicians Committee for Responsible Medicine that recommends the exclusion of cow's milk from children's diets are misleading and stray from mainstream nutrition recommendations," said one of the statements.

"The study results being cited need to be put into perspective. The Physicians Committee is taking results of studies that apply to an extremely small percentage of children and relating those results to the entire childhood population, and in some cases the adult population. For instance, the studies cited on diabetes and allergies apply to less than one percent of children.

"We respect Dr. Spock's popularity as an infant/child specialist during the 50's and 60's, but the group that called the press conference is not representative of practicing pediatricians in the U.S. today. In fact, this group's views have been described as extremist by many physicians and fit into an overall agenda that advocates vegetarianism and animal rights."

Of major importance to dairy farmers was an up-date of Dr. Spock's position that aired in an interview on Good Morning America, the national TV news program, Thursday morning. In this interview, Dr. Spock said he has been misquoted. He is simply saying that breast feeding of babies by their mothers is best. And because more mothers are working, he sees the trend diminishing for the use of this feeding method, and he wants to encourage young mothers to continue breast feeding their babies.

The statement by the milk promotion agencies agree with this latest position of Dr. Spock. "We agree with the American Academy of Pediatrics that breast milk is the preferred food for children under age one," the statement said. "Cows' milk is an important source of nutrients for children beyond that age. The mainstream health and nutrition communities, led by groups such as the American Dietetic Association, advocate two to three servings of dairy products to be included in a balanced diet each day. Dairy products supply over 75% of the available calcium in the American food supply.

"A recent study published in the New England Journal of Medicine this past summer reinforced the importance of calcium in children's diets and raised the issue of increasing the recommended allowances for calcium. Dr. Conrad Johnston, M.D., the primary researcher of the study (not funded by the dairy industry), addressed the importance of milk, cheese, and yogurt in children's diets.

"As for the group's (Physicians Committee) statement that government feeding programs, such as school lunch, should be consistent with AAP recommendations, it is quite a leap in logic to apply guidelines for infants under age one to school-age children. The lunch meal pattern for school-age children has been carefully established by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to provide children with at least one-third of the nutrients essential for growth. For many children, government feeding programs, such as school lunch, are their only daily source of important calories and nutrients."

Greg Miller, a nutritionist with the Chicago-based National Dairy Council, said there are a lot of great things about milk. It is a nutrient-dense product with calcium, magnesium, riboflavin, vitamins A and D. "I don't think kids are going to want to get up every day and eat broccoli and anchovies to get the kind of calcium they need.

T. Milton Nelson from the extension service at The University of Maryland said that everyone forgets that there is a remedy for those who are allegeric to milk and milk products. By simply using a lactose reduced product, you cure the problem.

Dr.Terry Hatch, a member of the American Academy of Pediatrics Committee on Nutrition, said that the percentage of people adversely affected by milk is small. For example, he said that less than .5 percent of children are allergic to milk protein.

Chris Lekos, a spokesman for the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, said agency officials found fault with other assertions made by the Physicians Committee. For example, these physicians contend about a third of milk products are contaminated with traces of antibiotics. But based on data from 46 state regulatory agencies, .08 percent of raw milk and .02 percent of pasteurized milk samples showed any trace of drug residue.

The strongest counterattack came from the officials of the American Medical Association. On Wednesday, AMA issued a statement that branded the Physicans Committee "a fringe organization of questionable repute" and insisted that milk is a fine source of calcium and protein for everyone, so long as people are careful to hold down their fat intake.

The statement attributed to Dr. M. Roy Schwarz, senior vice president of medical education and science said, "The AMA continues to marvel at how effectively a fringe organization of questionable repute continues to hoodwink the media with a series of questionable research that fails to enhance public health. Instead it serves only to advance the agenda of activist groups interested in perverting medical science.

"The Physicans Committee for Responsible Medicine (PCRM) is an animal rights organization and, despite its title, represents less than .005 percent of the total U.S. physican population," the AMA statement said.

Many dairy industry people are talking about the Alar scare in which an irresponsible group that had access to the media nearly destroyed the entire apple industry and did destroy the lives of many individual apple growers. These dairy people wonder aloud if this latest false attack on the dairy industry will have similar effects on their agricultural industry. Only time will tell. But the prompt rebuttals by bonified physicans and spokespersons for the dairy industry, in addition to the good common sense of the American consumer, should be enough to let truth prevail.

On-foot, On-rail Judging At Ephrata Sheep Show

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Things aren't always what they appear to be. That's what youth who participated in the Ephrata Fair carcass lambs on-foot competition learned when the top six lambs were slaughter and judged on rail.

Cheryl Fairbairn, livestock Extension agent for Chester County, judged lambs on-foot on September 23. The next day the top six lambs were auctioned and slaughtered.

Then Fairbairn judged the carcasses. The placings for both on-foot and on-rail follows.

Troy Bollinger's 98-pound lamb was judged first on foot and on-rail.

Second-place on-foot went to Jerry Bollinger's 124-pound lamb, which dropped to third on rail.

Third-place on-foot went to Jeff Bollinger's 114-pound lamb, which dropped to sixth place on rail

Fourth went to Keith Bollinger's 118-pound lamb, which ranked fifth on rail.

Fifth place on foot went to Jeff Martin's 116-pound lamb, which jumped to second place on rail.

Sixth place went to Kendall Reiff for his 112-pound Suffolk, which was evaluated as a fourth place on rail.

Placings for the Ephrata Fair Sheep Show follow:

The milking contest at the Ephrata Fair was won by Elmer Murry, right. In second place in the locally popular contest was Alice Ulrich.

Competition Close In Dairy Judging Forum

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The New Oxford FFA team beat the Chambersburg FFA team accordign to the tie-breaking rules in last week's Dairy Judging Forum at the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show.

Both teams scored 1,010 points. Following with a close third was the Bermudian FFA team with a score of 1,005.

Members of the winning FFA team were Andy Smith, John Hess, Erik Norton and Steve Alfree, all students at New Oxford High School. Joy Hess scored a 363, giving her the highest individual score among the 400 FFA members entered.

In the 4-H portion of the Dairy Judging Forum, it was the Berks County team taking the lead with a score of 1,012 over second place Somerset 4-H with 1,008 points. The Cumberland County 4-H team took third place with 972.

Members of the Berks County 4-H team included Jennifer Grimes of Strausstown, Lynette Heffner of Kutztown, Angela Werley of Hamburg and Michael Neiman of Fleetwood.

Craig Walton of Carlisle had the highest individual score. The Cumberland County 4-H Dairy Club member earned 351 points, taking the lead over Mark Ream of Markleton with 348 and Jennifer Grimes with 343.

Invitational Youth Dairy Cattle Judging Results Listed

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Thirty-three teams competed in the 24th Annual Invitational Youth Dairy Cattle Judging Contest last week at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Teams traveled from as far away as Florida and California to compete in the judging contest and match skills in a wide open forum.

Virginia Tech earned the highest score in the intercollegiate division team rankings, with a combined score for all six dairy breeds totaling 2076 points. Members of the high team coached by mike Barnes included Stacey Guyton of Jefferson, MD; Terry Perotti of Amenia, NY; Tammi Stiles of Woodstock, VA; and alternate Teresa Summers of Frederick, MD.

Just seven points separating the top five individuals. Terry Perotti scored 232 in the individual rankings for total reasons given, teammate Stacey Guyton placed second with 231 and Scott Ruby from Cal-Poly placed third with 229.

The Maryland 4-H team scored 1916 in the team rankings for all breeds, with a substantial lead over the New York and Pennsylvania 4-H teams. Members of the high team included Chip Savage of Knoxville, MD; Mark Iager of Fulton, MD; Marie Speak of Tanneytown, MD; and Kristi Geary of Gaithersburg, MD.

Tonia Koppenaal of Zeeland, Michigan placed first in the individual rankings for all breeds. With 653 points, she narrowly edged out Chip Savage who scored 650. Taking third was Matt Curley of Montrose, Pennsylvania with 637 points.

The Northwestern-Wayne Ohio FFA team coached by Dan Fulk won the team rankings for all breeds in the FFA competition. Their 1438 points were scored by team members Bryan Gortner of Wooster, Randy Tegtmeier of West Salem, Darby McLaughlin of Wooster and Stan McConahay of Wooster, alternate. The Indiana FFA team placed second with 1417 points, followed by the Virginia FFA team with 1393.

Rusty Hiatt of Anderson, representing the Indiana FFA team, captured first place in the individual rankings for total reasons in the FFA category. With 75 points, Rusty squeaked by second place Seth Burrier of the Maryland FFA team (74 points) and Jill McCord from the Indiana FFA team (72 points).

Classes for judging were selected from animals entered in the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show. Ten classes of four individuals each were judged, with ratings based on a possible score of 50 points for each class placed and 50 points for each set of reasons.

Holstein Named Supreme at Lampeter

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.)—The very stylish four-year-old that was named grand champion of the Holstein Show for Austin Thomas, Willow Street, was also named the supreme champion of the Lampeter Fair dairy show last week. Especially in the Holstein breed, the large show, as local fair dairy shows go, attracted many of the top local exhibitors, even though the All American show was in progress in Harrisburg at the same time.

The Rosie cow shown by Austin's mother Sandra Thomas was in beautiful condition for the show. Lloyd Pease was the judge.

Reserve champion honors in the Holstein show went to Cherry Hill Farm, Ronks, owned by Jack and Donna Coleman. The veteran show cow Maria is now 8-years-old, has high production records and retains a very well preserved udder.

George Bard of Conestoga showed the junior champion Holstein with his intermediate heifer calf, and Thomas had the reserve junior champion with a junior yearling.

In the Ayrshire show, Karen Hambrick had the grand champion, and Rick Findley had the reserve grand champion.

In Jersey competition, Michele Lambie showed the grand champion, and Jessica Hostetter had the reserve grand champion.

Nathan Hostetter's senior heifer calf was named the junior champion female in the Brown Swiss show.

In the youth dairy showmanship and fitting contest, Sherri Coleman was named the champion show person for older youths. Jessica Hostetter was first in the contest for youths age 13 to 16, and Denise Bollinger took first in the 12 and under contest.

In senior fitting George Bard was first, James Findley took first in the intermediate fitting contest, and Amanda Harnish was first in the 12 and under competition.

Hertzog Takes Champion Market Lamb Honors At New Holland Fair

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Thirteen-year-old Jason Hertzog took the grandchampion market lamb title at the New Holland Sheep Show on Wednesday.

It was the first major win for the son of Kenneth and Arlene Hertzog who has been showing sheep for four years. Hertzog and his sister Jessica each have two Hampshires at their Akron home.

"I showed the same sheep at Roundup, Ephrata, and Denver Fairs, and it didn't win," Hertzog said. "I think it depends on what the judge is looking for."

Judge Dr. Robert Herr, a Narvon polled Dorset breeder, was looking for a sheep with hard muscling, which could compete with sheep in state competitions such as the Pennsylvania Farm Show and the Keystone International Livestock Exhibition.

Reserve champion market lamb honors went to Kendall Reiff and his sheep Thomas. The 15-year-old senior at Lancaster Mennonite High School said that Thomas had been grand champion at the Denver Fair. The son of Sam and Elva Reiff raises Suffolks at their Ephrata home.

For the second year in a row, Troy Bollinger earned the top showmanship spot at the New Holland Fair. Troy, son of Glen and Edna Bollinger of Ephrata, raises about 15 Dorsets and breeding ewes and has a sheep shearing business. Judge Herr chose Bollinger because he placed his animal in an uphill stance, which shows a sheep to its best advantage, and for giving him a complete view of the animal at all times. The award is based 90 percent on showmanship and 10 percent on fitting.

"Maybe you can't have the best sheep, but you can have the cleanest," Herr told the 18 youth who competed for the title. He commended Bollinger's sheep for having clean ears, feet, and inside flank — a spot often overlooked according to Herr.

In the intermediate showmanship division, Jolene Ringler of the Grassland FFA was named number one. The 15-year-old raises 4 Suffolks at her Narvon home with parents, Ivan and Irene Ringler.

In the novice division, 10-year-old Jessica Eby placed first. It was the first year of showing for the sixth grader at Carnarvon Elementary. She became interested in sheep when her parents, Larry and Lavern Eby, boarded a friends' sheep at their East Earl home.

In the breeding sheep competition, Jeff Martin Of East Earl received the grand champion breeding sheep award for his champion ram named Omega. "It's a fitting name since this is my last year and my last show," Martin said of his 15-year-old career in sheep competition. He also showed the reserve champion ewe of all breeding sheep.

Reserve champion breeding sheep honors went to Troy Bollinger for his Dorset ram. The champion breeding ewe was a Suffolk yearling ewe owned by Jolene Ringler.

Results for the New Holland Fair Sheep Show follows:

Showmanship Honors at the New Holland Fair went to Troy Bollinger, expert; Jolene Ringler, intermediate; and Jessica Eby, novice.

Breeding sheep awards went to Jeff Martin and his champion ram Omega, left, and Troy Bollinger and his reserve champion ram Goliath. Dr. Herr, center, judged the event.

ADC Announces October District Meetings

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — A number of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative (ADC) district locals have scheduled meetings for October, according to announcements from the ADC main office in Southampton.

ADC has more than 3,500 dairy farm family members in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

The purpose of the meetings is different for each, but generally, there are being held to elect officers, delegates and alternate delegates, and in some cases take nominations for directorships; review past year performances, current financial situation and the cooperative's outlook; and also to present awards.

District 21

The New Enterprise and Cove-Bedford-Everett locals of District 21 have scheduled meetings for mid-October. New Enterprise is to meet 8 p.m., Oct. 13, at Northern Bedford High School. The Cove-Bedford-Everett local is to meet 8 p.m., Oct. 15, at the Landmark Restaurant in Bedford.

District 2

The South Jersey Local of ADC District 2 is to hold its annual meeting 7 p.m., Oct. 13, at the Elmer Grange Hall in Pole Tavern, N.Y.

Dr. Paul Hand, ADC's general manager, is to be the guest speaker. Also, award presentations are to be made to John Hubschmidt, of Bridgeton, and Ella Eachus, of Mullica Hill, in recognition of earning quality milk premiums for 12 straight months.

District 3

The Delta and Southern Lancaster locals of ADC District 3 have scheduled their meeting for 7:30 p.m., Oct. 7, at the Fulton Grange, near Wakefield.

In addition to electing officers, etc., nominations are to be taken for the district directorship currently held by Robert McSparran, whose term expires this fall.

District 16

The Littlestown Local of ADC District 16 has set its meeting for 7 p.m., Oct. 13, at the Harney Fire Hall, in Harney, Md.

In addition to elections, Ray Dutterer, of Littlestown, is to receive recognition for being a member for 25 years.

District 4

The Centreville and Tri County locals of ADC District 4 have scheduled a meeting for 7 p.m., Oct. 22, at Queen Anne Hillsboro Church, in Queen Anne, Md.

Robert Deaver, ADC assistant general manager is to be the quest speaker. Nominations will be taken to fill the directorship currently held by William Hopkins, who's planning to retire after 19 years service.

Also, a 25-year membership award is to go to Ronald and Ola Smith of Sudlersville, Md.

The Kent Local has set its meeting for 7:30 p.m., Oct. 28, at the Kent County Agricultural Extension office in Chestertown, Md. They will also have an opportunity to present nominations to replace Hopkins as director.

The Cecil Local of District 4 has scheduled its meeting for 7:15 p.m., Oct. 15, at Johnies Restaurant, in North East, Md. The speaker is to be Evan Fineman, ADC treasurer.

BOAC Selects Grassland FFA

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — The Grassland FFA Chapter has been selected as one of the 10 national finalists in the National FFA Organization's Building Our American Communities (BOAC) award program.

The program recognizes chapters for their outstanding accomplishments in community development/service activities. BOAC is nationwide rural community revitalization program that fosters leadership skills in young adults by encouraging them to work with their community in planning and implementing a variety of community development projects.

As part of their award, each chapter is invited to select one student leader to participate in the National FFA Organization's Conference on Community Development held in Washington, D.C. The conference is a series of workshops and meetings that focus on community development.

This year, at the tenth conference, the national finalists will be recognized for their outstanding efforts in community development. The national winner will be announcedc in Kansas City, Mo., on Friday, November 12 at the 65th National FFA Convention.

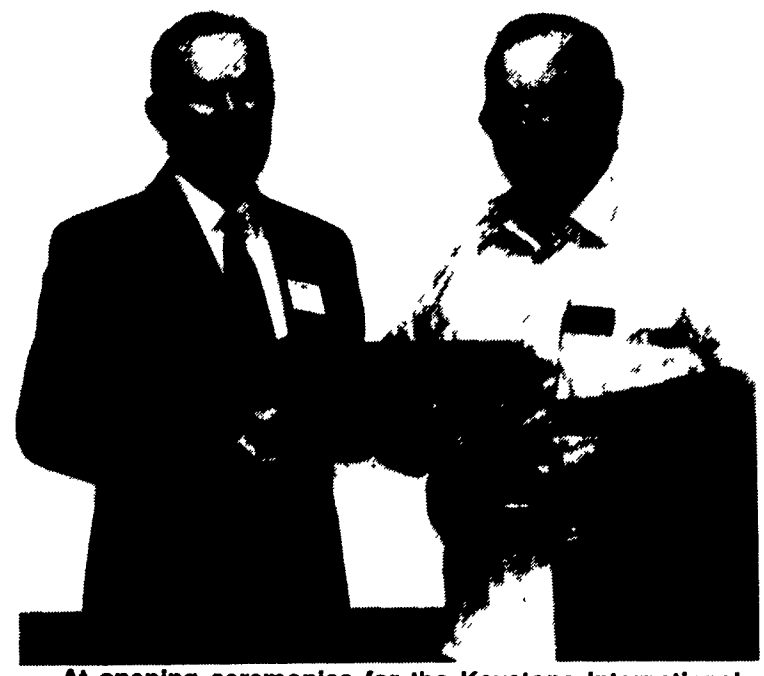
tural community is very long and varied. As a three-term president of the Pennsylvania Livestock Assocation, Dennis used his expertise in strengthening the association. He was instrumental in selecting and hiring an executive secretary, a much needed addition for any progressive thinking group. During his tenure, the membership has increased from 85 to 630. He spearheaded the Farm Show food booth change into the present day Food Court and this association funding has been very good to the group in the way of increased sales.

The Keystone International Livestock Exposition has taken on a new look and a different focus under Dennis' leadership. The show is now oriented not only to the more than 880 exhibitors, but also is being promoted to the consuming public.

Involved in the agriculture community and state organizations, Dennis is member of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association, the American Farm Bureau, past chairman of the Pennsylvania Ag Republicans, Board memmber of the Lebanon Valley Expo Corporation and is a Pennsylvania State Farm Show Commissioner as well as chairman of the Farm Show Committee, just to name a few of his affiliations.

Dennis is married to former Barbara Eisenhour and they have two sons, Daryl, age 20, a junior at Kutztown University, and Darren, a senior at Eastern Lebanon County High School. They are active in sports and 4-H and have exhibited many champions in both hogs and sheep shows. Barbara is serving as the Northeast Area Director of A.S.C.S., working out of Washington, D.C. during the week.



At opening ceremonies for the Keystone International Livestock Exposition, Peter Krall, right, representing the Pennsylvania Livestock Association, presents a plaque to Dennis Grumbine, the 1992 Livestock Hall of Fame recipient.

Bollinger Family Continues Show Ring Competition

Is It In The Genes?

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Take a glance at the names of persons showing sheep at county fairs, and the name Bollinger pops up again and again.

That's because three separate Bollinger families compete for sheep titles at county fairs. Because the families are related and the fathers grew up competing in local fairs, the question arises: "Is showing sheep in the genes?"

Technically, it hasn't been proven, but the clan appears to have a natural affinity for show ring champions.

The clan includes the Raymond and Sharon Bollinger family, whose 17-year-old twin sons, Jeff and Jerry, and 13-year-old son Keith are from Ephrata.

Their 18-year-old cousin Troy, son of Glen and Edna Bollinger, also lives in Ephrata.

These boys have second cousins, Tracy, 15; Amy, 13; and Derek, who raise sheep on their Manheim farm owned by their parents Eugene and Carol Bollinger.

In the show ring, the cousins help out each other and carry on friendly competitiveness, but the roots for showing sheep go back a generation. The names of all these children's fathers showed sheep in 4-H. In fact, cousins Eugene and Raymond, Ephrata High School graduates of 1969, were rivals in the show ring.

Raymond believes that he was the first to receive a chain animal given by Ephrata FFA. A chain animal is given to participants who care and show the animal. When sold, half of the money is returned to the program so that a continual chain of animals is available to participants.

The first year that Raymond competed in the Ephrata Fair competition, there were only three sheep entered and he owned all three. Each year, the sheep competition grew, and this year, 114 sheep were judged at the Ephrata Fair.

"I think more people are raising sheep because the animals don't take as much room as a steer or a pig. Actually you can raise them in your backyard," Raymond said.

Raymond's first sheep was a Cheviot. He enjoyed working with the breed so much that he influenced his sons to raise Cheviots. Eventually, they added some Suffolks for a total flock of 21.

Raymond's sons do well with both breeds. Keith showed the champion and reserve Cheviot ewe at both the Denver and Ephrata fairs. Jeff showed the champion ram and ewe in the Suffolk breed at Denver and the champion ram at Ephrata. Jeff was also named champion showman.

Competition is stiff for the cousins at times such as at the Ephrata Fair, where Troy, Jeff, and Jerry took the top three placings for the carcass lambs-on-foot division and top three placings in their class in senior showmanship. Judge Cheryl Fairbairn said of them, "They all do a great job — there's really no difference in their handling of their lambs. It's the best group of senior showmanship that I've seen in a long time."

In addition to the top carcass lamb-on-foot, Cousin Troy had the lightweight champion market lamb at Denver and Ephrata and the champion Dorset ram, which was named champion ram over all breeds at Ephrata.

When he was a high school student, Eugene showed beef, pigs, and sheep. His children show pigs and sheep. This year, at the Ephrata Fair in swine competition, Tracy was named champion showman and Amy showed top hogs in several classes, but it was in sheep competition that Amy captured the top spot in the champion market lamb division with her heavyweight champion named Roseanne. Three years ago, her sister Tracy won the same coveted title.

Not only are the sisters expert at raising champion sheep but also have an eye for meat judging. Fifteen-year-old Tracy is on the meat judging team that has earned a trip to the Kansas City FFA convention. Amy took first place in the junior meat judging division in the state. Both sisters are members of Manheim Central FFA and 4-H.

While the Bollinger dads encourage their offspring to be competitive in the show ring, they said the desired qualities of top lambs have changed a lot since in the past generation.

Raymond said, "At that time, judges liked short, pudgy lambs. Now the tall, long-groin ones are in demand."

While sheep characteristics have changed, the Bollinger clans' fondness for sheep does not show any signs of changing for at least another decade. Eugene said, "I got a younger son just beginning."

Pampered Sheep Raised By Stoltzfus Family

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Although many 4-H'ers develop a love affair with the animals they raise for projects, few members share the devotion that Jessica Stoltzfus and her Dorsets do.

Jessica, who just turned 12, likes "spoiling sheep" and is known to fall asleep in the sheep pen with her animals. She names every one of the lambs born on the farm and admits to crying when the sheep are marketed.

With her brother Jason, and parents Frank and Irene, the Stoltzfuses raise and breed Dorsets and Suffolks on their 10-acre farmette.

The brother and sister got their start in sheep when they moved from Chester County to Elizabethtown in 1985.

"When we moved into the area, the children did not have anything to do. I thought they could make a little money and learn a little on the side if they raised sheep," Frank said.

The first year Jason did not do well with his sheep, but during his second year, he had a reserve championship at Manheim. The first year that Jessica showed, she had the reserve champion sale lamb at Elizabethtown.

With these wins, using cross breds, the show bug bit. Ever since, the children have been doing well in the show ring at several local fairs.

Frank said, "Champions are won mostly through breeding and selection."

In an effort to upgrade their sheep, the Stoltzfuses searched for breeding stock with good style and confirmation that would not require paying a lot of money.

"We bought pretty decent," Frank said of the purebred ewes used for breeding their own stock.

Jessica has settled on the Dorset breed because they are more calm, smaller, and docile than the Suffolk meat breed, which her brother prefers.

Presently, Jessica and Jason have 15 Dorsets ewes and nine Suffolk ewes. They pick lambs to show in both market and breed classes and sell the excess.

"Basically the livestock industry is looking for total amount of meat and leaness. We try to select our show lambs for that," Frank said.

The Stoltzfuses have a treadmill for the sheep to build muscle. Jessica also walks them for exercise in addition to having them jump over 10 hurdles fairly regularly.

The feed in trough is placed above the sheep's head so that the sheep must stand on hind legs to eat. This develops muscle and stretches the loin.

Although success seems to follow Jessica in the show ring, she has had her share of disappointments. One year, her best ram died just before show time. The family never uncovered the cause of the ram's death.

Jessica captured the top showmanship title in several fairs.

"I learn by watching people and asking questions," Jessica said of her success.

She is saving the prize money for college expenses. At present, Jessica's dad shears the sheep, but Jessica would like to get into fitting them.

Although she's had champions in overall breeds in the breeding division, she has not yet attained her dream to show the champion market lamb. She's come close with a second place in the heavyweight class at the Ephrata Fair.

Jessica and Jason Stoltzfus bred prize-winning Dorsets and Suffolks with their parents, Frank and Irene.

Jason and Jessica Stoltzfus are well-known in sheep and steer show ring circles for their achievements in showing and raising quality animals.

This past year at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, the Stoltzfuses showed market lambs but not breeding sheep.

"Bigger shows are coming in several years," said Frank of the family's plan to eventually enter state and national shows. "But we want to win consistently on this level before going to the next level."

Frank showed pigs in FFA and steers in 4-H in Chester County so he was eager for his children to show the same animals.

Since the Stoltzfuses have a 1,600-head hog operation, they showed pigs one year, but with pseudorabies around, exposing his pigs to other animals makes Frank a bit nervous and he no longer allows their pigs to be shown.

Jason is a natural with steers. He prefers the hefty Angus crossbred steers to sheep. He has two steers that he raises, and his dad would like Jessica to raise two also, but she doesn't like steers because they are too large to handle.

Last year, Jason won the Intell calf by winning the county 4-H showmanship contest. He was the only one who ever won in the first year of showing beef. He credits his win to showing sheep for six or seven years.

"It's pretty much the same," he said of the skills of setting up the

Bring Home That Country Charm

SHREWSBURY (York Co.) — Country ... that one simple word evokes endless homey images: a white-washed front porch with rocking chairs... the comforting sound of a screen door banging shut ... and a family gathered around the kitchen table in laughter.

The warm and cozy feelings of these country images are a part of what makes homemade country crafts so popular. Their presence in our modern homes seems to bring the comfort of a more simple lifestyle.

"A Homestead Country Christmas" presented by the Farmer's Daughter Craft and Garden Center, has found some new ways to bring this country feeling to you through their lovely country homestead in Shrewsbury.

"A Homestead Country Christmas" is located at 321 W. Railroad Avenue next to the Farmer's Daughter on Rt. 851. Taking pride in the high quality of homemade items available, shoppers will find an attractive array of country gifts displayed throughout the home. Megan Shaub, owner, and her two assistants Connie McKay and Sue Chlumsky, made it their business to travel to country markets in a consistent effort to supply area craft lovers with the most updated products from local and nationwide crafters.

The rooms of this early nineteenth century farm house will be filled to the brim with a variety of homespun crafts from about one hundred crafters. Displayed with a festive flair, shoppers will enjoy vast quantitites of tole painting, dried wreaths and swags, baskets, dolls, Santas, and holiday decor. Aside from the beauty and reasonable prices of these items, they are unique in that they come in a variety of colors to coordinate with the existing decor in your home. Special orders will be taken on many of the items displayed throughout the homestead.

The dates and times for shopping are from now until Sunday, November 22. Mondays, Fridays, and Saturdays the hours are 10 a.m. - 6 p.m.; Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays 10 a.m. - 9 p.m.; and Sundays 11 a.m. - 5 p.m.

If you've been looking for a festive and fun way to shop for the holidays and bring some country charm to your home visit "A Homestead Country Christmas" in Shrewsbury next to the Farmer's Daughter and also look forward to "Springtime on the Homestead" coming in March. For more information call: (717)235-3309.

animal and keeping a close eye on the judge.

The opportunity to win an Intell calf is allowed only one time. Even though he is not eligible to win again, Jason said that he enjoys working with cattle. "It's neat just for the experience," he said.

"I work with them everyday," he said. Winnings have been favorable for Jason, who said, "It's a lot of work, but it's worth the effort."

The money Jason makes goes into a college fund for an ag-related degree.

The Elizabethtown High School sophomore is a member of FFA and the 4-H Woolies and Red Rose Beef clubs.

He is active in the youth group and the church quizzing teams at Elizabethtown Brethren In Christ Church. As part of the quizzing team, he memorized the books of the Bible: Galatians, Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians, and Philemon. The previous year, he memorized the book of Acts. Last year, Jason's team placed third in conference competition of 11 teams.

Although she is only 12 years old, Jessica Stoltzfus accumulates ribbons for her Dorset sheep at Lancaster County fairs.

Celebrate National Pork Month

Stretching food dollars today doesn't have to mean sacrificing variety, great taste and nutritional value. When shopping the meat case, look to lean and economical cuts of pork to satisfy your taste for lean meat. Shoulder (picnic or butt) chops and roasts, ground pork, blade steaks and roasts, and sirloin chops offer great taste and versatility and are friendly to your budget.

Meal preparation habits will influence your pork purchasing decisions. If preparation time is limited, select cuts that cook quickly. Save large roasts or long-cooking oven meals for weekends. Also, consider cooking a larger cut or a dish with extra servings if leftovers would be convenient during a busy week.

On a pure dollars-and-cents basis, boneless cuts of fresh pork often offer a better value than bone-in cuts — even though at first glance, the boneless cuts may appear to be higher-priced than their bone-in cousins.

If you buy boneless pork cuts, you're paying only for meat you'll actually use. Boneless pork offers endless versatility and no bone or fat waste: 100% edible.

APPLE-PORK MEATBALLS

1 pound lean ground pork
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup shredded pared apple
¼ cup soft bread crumbs
¼ cup finely chopped walnuts
½ cup water
½ cup apple jelly
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish

Sprinkle salt, cinnamon and pepper over pork; add apples, bread crumbs and walnuts. Mix lightly but thoroughly. Shape mixture into 16 balls. Brown meatballs in a large frying pan over medium-high heat. Pour off any drippings. Add water, cover tightly and cook slowly for 15 minutes. Remove meatballs, keep warm. Stir apple jelly and horseradish into cooking liquid and cook until melted. Pour sauce over meatballs. Serves 4.

SAGE AND ROSEMARY PORK STEW

2 pounds boneless pork shoulder roast, cut into ¾ -inch cubes
1 tablespoon oil
2-14½ -ounce cans chicken broth
1 cup water
½ cup sliced green onions
1 tablespoon minced fresh rosemary OR 1 teaspoon dried
1 teaspoon minced fresh sage OR ¼ teaspoon dired
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups cubed, unpeeled new potatoes
½ pound fresh green beans, cut up
⅓ cup all-purpose four
⅔ cup half and half

Heat oil in Dutch oven. Brown pork cubes over medium-high heat. Stir in chicken broth, water, onions and seasonings. Bring to a boil; reduce heat. Simmer uncovered for 20 minutes. Stir in potatoes and beans; simmer 15-20 minutes or until tender. Combine flour and half and half; mix until smooth. Gradually stir into stew. Cook and stir until thickened. Serves 6.

Nutrient Information per Serving: Calories: 387, Protein: 31 grams, Fat: 17 grams, Sodium: 616 mg. Cholesterol: 94 mg.

PORK'N KRAUT SKILLET

4 boneless pork sirloin chops, 1-inch thick
1 teaspoon vegetable oil
1 16-ounce can sauerkraut, rinsed and drained
1 tablespoon dried minced onion
2 teaspoons caraway seed
1 teaspoon dried thyme, crushed
1 large tar apple, cored and sliced into ½ -inch wedges
¼ cup water

In large skillet, brown chops in hot oil for 3-5 minutes per side, or until nicely browned. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Stir together sauerkraut, onion, caraway, thyme, apple and water. Add to skillet; cover and simmer 20-30 minutes or until apples and pork are tender. Serves 4.

Nutrient Information per Serving: Calories: 245, Protein: 25 grams, Fat: 10 grams, Sodium: 737 mg., Cholesterol: 73 mg.

Pork wins on the nutritional character issue by being lean, wholesome, and versatile. Simply choose pork cubes and combine with fresh vegetables for an all-American meal that is sure to get everyone's vote on flavor.

SAVORY PORK SOUP

1 ½ pounds boneless pork shoulder, cut into 1-inch cubes
¼ cup all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons vegetable oil
1 bunch green onions, sliced
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 16-ounce cans tomatoes, undrained
2 10½ -ounce cans beef broth
1 16-ounce jar small boiled onions, drained
1 6-ounce can vegetable cocktail juice
½ cup water
3 stalks celery, sliced into 1-inch pieces
2 medium yellow squash, sliced
1 bay leaf
1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon seasoned pepper

Dredge pork cubes in flour, coating well. Heat oil in a Dutch oven; brown cubes on all sides in hot oil. Add green onions and garlic; cook over medium-high heat for one minute, stirring constantly. Add remaining ingredients; bring to a boil. Reduce heat; cover and simmer for 1 to 1½ hours, stirring occasionally. Serves 8.

MEXICAN PORK STEAKS

4 pork blade steads, ¾ -inch thick
1 teaspoon vegetable oil
1 cup chunky salsa
⅓ cup water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon ground cumin
Salt, to taste

Heat oil in nonstick skillet; brown pork steaks on both sides. Combine salsa, water, lemon juice and cumin; pour mixture over chops. Cover and simmer for 10-12 minutes. Serves 4.

Nutrient Information per serving: Calories: 189, Protein: 18 grams, Fat: 9 grams, Sodium: 573 mg., Cholesterol: 66 mg.

TASTY TACO SALAD

1 pound lean ground pork
1 8-ounce can whole tomatoes, cut up
¼ cup chopped onion
2-3 teaspoons chili powder, or to taste
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
Salt and pepper, to taste
1 head iceberg lettuce
2 tomates, cut in wedges
¼ cup shredded Cheddar cheese

In heavy 9-inch skillet, brown ground pork over moderate heat. Drain. Stir in undrained canned tomatoes, onion, chili powder and garlic powder. Bring to boiling; reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, until most liquid evaporates, about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Meanwhile, line four individual salad bowls with large lettuce leaves; tear remaining lettuce into bite-size pieces. Divide among four salad bowls. Spoon about ½ cup pork mixture onto lettuce bed in each salad bowl. Arrange tomato wedges atop salad; sprinkle with cheese and crushed corn chips, if desired. Serves 4.

For many people, maintaining a healthy diet is difficult because bland, boring foods get in the way.

Discover how to enjoy eating without defeating your diet in a new booklet free of charge from the makers of Molly McButter Natural Butter Flavor Sprinkles.

To order the new Molly spa crusine booklet, send a self-addressed stamped business size envelope to MOLLY MCBUTTER TASTE THE HEALTHY LIFE, Box GM, 2525 Armitage Ave., Melrose Park, IL 60160 or call the Molly McButter Nutrition information Hotline at 1-800-622-3274 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. EST, Monday - Friday.

Here is a recipe from the brochure.

APRICOT GLAZED CHICKEN BREASTS

2 3-ounce boneless, skinless chicken breast halves
¼ cup all-fruit apricot preserves
1½ teaspoon low sodium soy sauce
1 teaspoon Dijon-style mustard
1 teaspoon honey
1 teaspoon Molly McButter butter flavor sprinkles

Place chicken breasts on a broiler pan lightly coated with non-stick cooking spray. In a small bowl, combine apricot preserves, soy sauce, mustard, honey, and butter sprinkles. Brush chicken breasts with glaze mixture. Broil 5 to 6 inches from heat for 5 minutes, brushing again with glaze after 3 minutes. Turn breasts, brush with glaze. Repeat broiling procedure as for first side, cooking until chicken is tender.

Serve with ⅓ cup servings of cooked brown rice.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

They come plodding into the barn mid-afternoon, little puffs rising as hoofed feet meet fresh sawdust sprinkled over the center alleyway.

On bright days, individuals are indiscernable at a distance, the glare outside the wide barn doors at the far end of the building creating dark silhouettes of these cows returning from pasture for the afternoon milking. But as they draw closer to where I wait to turn certain cows into box stalls, their individuality emerges.

Anissa, who belongs in a stall at the distant end, but who always has to visit the box stalls to snitch feed. Ester and Beanie, new heifers still a bit unsure of where they belong and needing a little direction to find the open stall door. And "Grandma," our herd matriarch, who goes at her own speed - low gear - while ignoring other cows and any efforts to hurry her pace.

Grandma must always pause to eat from the outside of the boxstall trough before she'll step inside - to eat from that same identical spot. And beware any bovine who gets in Grandma's way; she'll swing that solid head in their direction and remind 'em who's boss.

In the herd pecking order, Grandma has always been right up there near the top.

"Pecking order" is not limited to the dairy herd. This descriptive term of who bosses who (or whom?) in a group of animals (and maybe people?) originated with birds. The big boss bird pecks a smaller bird that gets too close to feed or territory, which in turn pecks another less agressive bird, which pecks a real timid individual, and so on down the flock social order.

The scrappy little bantam rooster that moved onto the farm from the neighbors last year is a perfect example. Though smaller than the resident roosters, he promptly wooed over our single old hen, sending the bigger guys into disgruntled batchelorhood, with only each other for companionship. And then he crowed about it every morning.

But pecking order, around here, isn't limited to within species.

Solomon, our six-year-old Sheltie, loves to chase cows, barks at anything that moves and relishes the role of tomcat-fight referee. But Monk, our pudgy, aging, black and white housecat, has never forgiven him for his boisterous arrival a couple of years ago. She spent three weeks hiding upstairs.

No more hiding for Monk. When Soloman prances into the house and takes a turn at his favorite spot under the kitchen table, Monk charges at him from around the corner or behind the television. He promptly detours. And, if she hears him headed up the stairs from the basement, old Monk parks her chubby self at the top. Solomon cowers on the landing eight steps down.

While Monk definitely holds high-rung spot on the pecking order ladder, not all the cats fare so well.

Mother Hen continues to do an eggs-acting job of raising her three chicks, now all feathered, sleek and able to fly from perches like the top of the calf pens. As daylight beings to fade, though, she faithfully leads them back to the shelter and safety of the temporary calf pens in the wagon shed.

When the calf in her favorite pen was moved, that left the big corner area for the exclusive use of the feathered family. Or so Mother Hen thought.

Just yards away, the seven (yes, seven!) kittens belonging to sleek, black Silky were beginning to run about and play. Their natural curiosity took them into the corner pen.

While feeding a newborn calf a few evenings ago, I watched as a kitten climbed up and perched on a cement block at the pen's opening. Mother Hen, coaxing her babies inside, bent her head down, glared at the intruding kitten, and gave it a firm whack on the head with her beak.

Kinda' reinforces the whole concept of a "pecking order."

Stress: Sign Of The Times

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Rapid, unexpected changes in your life usually lead to feelings of stress. A new job, death in the family, divorce, the "empty nest", or adult children (and possibly grandchildren too) returning home, or any other situation that drastically changes your daily routine can create additional stress on you and your family. Controlling stress can help you face the situation directly and make appropriate decisions.

Take care of yourself. When you are in the middle of a financial, personal, or family crisis, maintaining control is important. Concentrate your efforts of keeping your attitude, your family, and your body as strong as possible. Recognize early warning signals of excessive stress, such as anxiety, moodiness, irresponsibility, insomnia, emotional outbursts, extreme fatigue, and feelings of helplessness.

Try to manage stressful situations. One technique is to make a list of reasons you are worried. Study each reason and cross out unrealistic concerns. Next, list on a separate page the remaining reasons. Then, identify the concerns over which you have some control and formulate a specific, practical action to cope with each of these. Devote your energy and actions to changing the things over which you have control.

Even if you can't change the circumstances that caused the stress, you can work on your own attitude as problems are confronted. Try to divert your thinking to what to do next.

Incorporate "I can do..." in your daily vocabulary. How you think and how you act are up to you. Think positively.

Use time efficiently. Don't try to do everything yourself. Clarify other family members' roles and responsibilities.

Find support with friends, family, and others going through similar circumstances. But when all you do still leaves you feeling depressed and unable to cope with stress in your life, sometimes professional assistance will help you find new solutions. Professional help may come from mental health agencies, lay groups, community agencies, family physicians, and religious advisers. These people can help you deal with extreme stress, as well as the physical and emotional trauma that may accompany it.

ANSWER — Thanks to D.B. of Rocky Ridge, Md., for sending a recipe to make Bread Basket Dough.

Bread Basket Dough

3 cups flour
2 cups salt
1½ cups water

Knead dough until it is playdough consistency. Shape into desired shapes and place on aluminum foil covered cookie sheet. Brush with egg white; poke with fork. Start baking at 250 degrees until dough is hard. Turn to 200 degrees and bake until brown. Cool and varnish.

ANSWER — M. Nagle, Schuylkill Haven, requested a recipe for mock crab cakes that are made with zucchini instead of crab meat. Thanks to Sue Creveling, Mount Joy; Jo Matenus, Dallas; Katlyn Van Nort, Columbia; and Marion Halter, Bridgeton, N.J. for sending recipes.

Poor Man's Crab Cakes

4 cups shredded zucchini
3 cups Italian bread crumbs
1 tablespoon Old Bay seasoning
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
2 eggs

Mix together all ingredients. Pat into cakes and fry in skillet until browned.

Caution from Sue Creveling: A tablespoon of Old Bay seasoning is too zesty for some people. She prefers to only add a teaspoon or two at most.

ANSWER — A Pennsylvania reader would like a recipe for fruit leather or fruit roll ups. Thanks to Fred Retter, Quakertown, and to a Gilbersville reader for sending recipes.

Fruit Leather

Use overripe fruit and puree in either foodmill or blender. To each 5 pints of puree, add 1 cup sugar and ½ teaspoon ascorbic acid to prevent fruit from darkening. Place ingredients in double broiler and cook at 180 degrees for 10 minutes. Pour into a shallow pan sprayed with non stick coating. Spread to ¼ -inch thickness. Set in sun for at least 24 hours. (You can finish drying in a drying cabinet for a brighter color. The mixture should be dry enough to pull off in a whole sheet). Cut into pieces and wrap in plastic, roll and wrap again. Keep in refrigerator or freezer. If frozen, it keeps one year.

Strawberry Leather

About 3 cups fresh strawberries
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon light corn syrup

Place strawberries in container of an electric blender; process until smooth. Measure 2 cups of strawberry puree; stir in lemon juice and corn syrup.

Line a 15x10x1-inch jellyroll pan with heavy-duty plastic wrap, and tape plastic wrap to pan at corners. Pour pureed strawberry mixture in prepared pan snd spread, leaving a 1-inch margin on all sides. (Adjust the size and shape of the pan, if necessary, to fit your dehydrator. Keep the layer of strawberry mixture at the same thickness.

Dry in convection oven or dehydrator at 150 degrees for 7½ to 8 hours or until surface is dry and no longer sticky.

Remove leather from pan while still warm; beginning with short end, rool up jellyroll fashion. Cut into logs and wrap in plastic wrap. Yield: 5 (2-inch) logs.

ANSWER — Mrs. E. King, Ronks, requested a recipe for soft molasses cookies with a sugary top similar to those made at Kitchen Kettle in Intercourse. Thanks to Susan Van Pelt, Weyers Cave, Va., for sending a recipe.

Molasses Sugar Cookies

⅔ cup shortening, melted
1 cup sugar
¼ cup molasses
1 egg
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt

Add sugar, egg, and molasses to cooled shortening. Blend well and add remaining ingredients. Chill. Roll in 1-inch balls and roll in sugar. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes. (Cookies will flatten while baking).

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know how to use an aloe vera plant. Thanks to a York County reader who wrote that the plant is a foliage plant that is easy to grow and multiplies rapidly. It is good to use on skin burns. First drench the burn under cold water. Break off a leaf of the aloe vera plant and squeeze the liquid substance directly on the burned area. She finds that the burns heal rapidly without forming blisters. (Turn to Page B9)

Pork

PORK STEAKS WITH GREEN BEANS

4 pork blade steaks, ¾ -inch thick
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 tablespoon honey
1 9-ounce package frozen French-style green beans, thawed

Place steaks in plastic bag or shallow baking dish. Combine garlic, onion, lemon juice, soy sauce and honey; mix well. Pour marinade over pork steaks. Tie bag securely or cover tightly and marinate in refrigerator 2 hours, turning once.

Drain pork steaks, reserving marinade. Place steaks on rack in broiler pan. Broil 4 to 5 inches from heat for 4-5 minutes per side. Pour marinade into small saucepan; bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer for five minutes. Add green beans; cover and cook 5-8 minutes or until beans are tender. Serve green beans with broiled steaks. Serve 4.

PORK ROAST WITH APPLE-MUSTARD GLAZE

3-pound bonless pork sirloin roast
⅓ cup frozen apple juice concentrate, thawed
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 tablespoon honey
1 tablespoon Dijon-style mustard
1 teaspoon soy sauce
½ teaspoon dried marjoram, crushed
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
3 tart apples, cored and sliced in wedges
1 tablespoon cornstarch

Place roast in shallow roasting pan. Stir together apple juice concentrate, vinegar, honey, mustard, soy sauce and seasonings and brush over pork. Roast in a 325 degree F. oven for 45 minutes, basting occasionally with apple juice mixture. Add apple wedges to roasting pan and continue to roast another 30-45 minutes, until internal temperature of roast is 155-160 degrees F. Remove from oven; strain juices into saucepan. Add water to make 1 cup. Stir together cornstarch and 1 tablespoon water; add to saucepan and cook and stir over high heat until thickened and bubbly. Slice roast and serve with apples and sauce. Serves: 8.

Nutrient Information per Three-Ounce Serving: Calories: 212, Protein: 27 grams, Fat: 8 grams, Sodium: 162 mg., Cholesterol: 79 mg.

HOT SAUSAGE ROLLS

1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
½ cup butter, cold
½ cup small curd creamed cottage cheese
6 5-inch precooked Polish sausages or Bratwurst
1 tablespoon Dijon or other mustard
1 egg
1 tablespoon milk

Measure flour into mixing bowl. Cut butter into ½ -inch sized pieces. Using pastry blender, cut into flour until mixture is in pea-sized pieces. Stir in cottage cheese, until a stiff dough forms. Add 2 to 3 teaspoons ice water if necessary. Divide into 6 parts. Roll each part to make a rectangle, 6 inches long and 3 inches wide. Spread with 1 teaspoon mustard. Top with a sausage. Roll pastry around sausage, encasing it completely. Brush with water to seal. Seal ends. Place seamside down on a cookie sheet. Prick once or twice with a fork to allow steam to escape. Repeat for remaining sausages. Mix egg and milk. Brush pastry coated sausages with mixture. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes or until nicely brown. Slice into 1-inch pieces.

Pa. Farm Wife Named Bush Co-chair

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Joyce Hershey, Cochranville, has been named co-chairman of Pennsylvania Farmers for Bush/Quale, it is announced by state chairman Dennis Grumbine, Lebanon.

Mrs. Hershey operates the 350-acre Ar-Joy dairy farm with her husband Art and son Duane.

The Chester county farm wife will coordinate fund raising and political activities in 32 eastern and central counties, Grumbine revealed.

"Joyce knows how political campaigns tick, and she brings enthusiasm, and organization talents to the job," he noted.

A life-long Republican, Joyce was an alternate delegate to the Republican National Convention this year at Houston, and has been an active volunteer for U.S. Sen. Arlen Specter, Congressman Robert Walker, and President Bush.

She is chairman of the Chester County Agriculture Development Council, organized the West Fallowfield Township Agriculture Security Area and has served as vice president and president of the Penn Agri-Women, secretary of the county's Extension Family Living Committee, chairman of both the membership and women's committees of the Chester County Farmers Association as well as a member of a half dozen other organizations.

Her husband, Arthur, represents District 13 in the state House of Representatives. They have four children and seven grandchildren.

Joyce Hershey, Chester County, picked for GOP post.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Mrs. Ronald Arbogast, Millerstown, would like a recipe for the starter, which includes peaches, cherries, and pineapple, for a Friendship cake. Thanks to a reader for sending the following recipe.

Brandied Friendship Fruit
Starter for Friendship Cake

15 ounces pineapple chunks, drained
16 ounces sliced peaches, drained
17 ounces apricot halves, drained
10 ounces maraschino cherries, drained
1¼ cups sugar
1¼ cups brandy

Combine all ingredients in 2-quart nonmetallic bowl, stirring gently. Let stand, covered, at room temperature for 3 weeks, stirring twice a week. Serve mixture over ice cream or pound cake, reserving 1 cup of mixture for a starter.

Add 1 cup sugar and 1 of the fruits to starter every 1 to 3 weeks, alternating fruit each time. Let stand covered at room temperature for 3 days before serving. Yields 6 cups.

ANSWER — B. Blankenhorn, Allentown, requested a recipe for Key-Lime Pie. Thanks to Ginny Atkinson, Bridgeton, N.J., Edna Rudisill, Dover; Anna Schrader, Townsend, Del.; and Kathy Erickson, Chesterfield, N.J., for sending recipes that original from Key West, Florida, which is famous for its Key Lime Pie.

Key Lime Pie

1 can condensed milk
4 egg yolks
½ cup lime juice
4 egg whites
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
6 tablespoons sugar

Combine milk, egg yolks, and lime juice. Beat 1 egg white until stiff and fold into egg yolk mixture. Pour into unbaked pie shell and bake at 325 degrees until set. Top with meringue made with remaining egg whites, beaten until stiff; gradually add sugar and cream of tartar. Bake pie at 350 degrees until meringue is golden brown.

Breakfast Puzzle

Do you start your day off by eating breakfast? I sure hope so. Breakfast is the most important meal of the day. Studies have shown that breakfast eaters are more alert and productive in the late morning hours than breakfast skippers.

You can eat almost anything for breakfast — the important thing is to eat some food that supplies both energy and nourishment before the day's activities begin.

In the following breakfast puzzle — find the foods we usually eat for breakfast going across, horizontally or diagonally.

Nutrition Fun

Did you know that there are more than 100 ready to eat cereals for you to choose from? The amount of sugar contained in each varies so you need to check the nutrition label on the side panel of the cereal box to find out how much sugar will already be in your bowl. Look for the section titled "Carbohydrate Information" then the line listed as "Total Sucrose and other sugars with the amount given in grams. To figure out how many teaspoons of sugar there are just four into that number (four grams equals one teaspoon).

Here are some cereals with their sugar content.

Apple Jacks	14 grams	3½ teaspoons
Trix	12 grams	3 teaspoons
Life	06grams	1½ teaspoons
Wheaties	03grams	¾ teaspoon
Corn Flakes	02grams	½ teaspoon
Cherrios	01gram	¼ teaspoon
Shredded Wheat	00gram

Encounters With Yellowjackets

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — As summer's end approaches and people try to maximize their fun in the sun, their chances of running into a yellowjacket increase. It's not that the insects have become more aggressive, but because their numbers and the size of their nests have increased throughout the spring and summer, says Nancy Breisch, an entomology consultant with the Cooperative Extension Service, Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resource.

Yellowjacket stings can be at best painful and at worst life threatening. And their ground nesting habits make them an unpleasant surprise for unsuspecting hikers or home gardeners.

Fortunately, there are some practical steps you can take to reduce your chances of being stung, according to Breisch:

* Be observant when doing yardwork. Make sure yellowjackets aren't flying into the bushes you're planning to trim or the pile of leaves and debris you're planning to rake up. Yellowjackets, which often nest in shrubs, are very sensitive to vibrations; so even if you're clipping branches several feet away, they may perceive you as a threat and sting you.

* Drink with a straw or from a container you can see into. Yellowjackets (and honeybees) can crawl into a beverage can or bottle and sting you when you drink.

* Avoid walking barefoot outdoors. Yellowjackets skim areas of grass and clover looking for small insects to eat. If you step on them, they will sting.

* Stay on established trails in parks and other natural areas. This will help you avoid blundering into yellowjacket nests, which can be found in trees or underground as well as in shrubs.

* Run like crazy if you disturb a nest. The faster you leave the vicinity, the faster the insects will lose interest in you.

There's always a chance that, despite your avoidance efforts, you'll get stung. Unless you're allergic — and not many people are — reactions are relatively mild.

"People tend to think that if their arm swells up after they've been stung on the hand, they're allergic," says Breisch, "but that's not true. A normal reaction to the venom injected by stinging insects can include localized swelling, redness, burning and sometimes days of itching."

A true allergic reaction, on the other hand, may involve breathing difficulties, nausea, blurred vision, hives or swelling elsewhere on the body, and in the worst cases, anaphylactic shock, and, very rarely, death.

A first allergic reaction is almost never fatal, but the second one sometimes is, says Breisch, so an individual who experiences any symptoms of a true allergic reaction should contact an allergist or the Allergy Clinic at The Johns Hopkins Asthma and Allergy Center (phone: 410-550-2300). An epinephrine injection device should be carried at all times until desensitization therapy has been completed.

Successful therapy is aided by the correct identification of the insect that caused the reaction, so it's a good idea to keep the insect that stung you.

Many people incorrectly believe that if a stinging apparatus or "sting" is left in their skin, the culprit must be a honeybee. Although honeybees do lose their sting after striking, at least two common species of yellowjackets also leave their stings behind under certain circumstances, according to Breisch.

For information on identifying various stinging insects and their nests, Maryland residents can call their local Cooperative Extension Service office for a free single copy of Controlling Wasps (Bulletin 248). Phone numbers are included under county (and Baltimore City) listings in the blue pages of the telephone directory. The publication also is available from Extension's Home and Garden Information Center (1-800-342-2507).

Help For Building Strong Families

DAUPHIN (Cumberland Co.) — The second regional Building Strong Families conference will be held Friday, November 6, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Holiday Inn, Harrisburg-Mechanicsburg.

The conference is sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension in conjunction with area social services and clergy. Keynote speaker, Dr. Linda Shoop, associate professor at Penn State University, New Kensington Campus, will discuss "Finger Balloons, Bubble Pipes: Tools to help Children Deal with Stress."

"One of our major conference goals," said conference co-chair, Mary Laeger-Hagemeister, "is for the community agencies to pull together and network for the benefit of building strong families, the foundation of a healthy community." Conference participants can choose to attend two of the thirteen sessions offered during the day.

Lillian Ecobar-Haskins, executive director of the Governor's Advisory Commission on Latino Affairs, will address the conference participants at lunch on ways to build trust with clients from different cultures in her presentationb, "Cross Cultural Awareness and Competency."

Registration deadline for the conference is Friday, October 16. To register or to request additional information phone (717) 921-8803 or (717) 240-6500.

Mary Lloyd in the patch with one of the many customers she will help during the day.

Mum Is The Word On Walnut Bottom Road

BETH MILLER
Franklin Co. Correspondent

HOCKERSVILLE (Cumberlar Co.) — Every year around August, Donald and Mary Lloyd's place explodes into color.

The field beside their house on the Walnut Bottom Road breaks out in hues of blues, oranges, reds and purples.

About the same time, the people start coming.

They are looking for the mums that the Lloyds grow. Not many of the people who stop leave empty-handed.

"I've made a lot of friends over the years," Mary Lloyd said. "Our business has grown mostly by word of mouth."

The Lloyds said they started their roadside mum business 16 years ago. They said they charge the same price now as they did then.

That price starts at $2 if a customer digs his own mums. It is $2.50 if the Lloyds do the dirty work.

There are lots of varieties to choose from on the two acres the Lloyds plant each year at their home about 15 miles south of Carlisle.

Mary Lloyd said 75 kinds of mums with all shades and combinations of colors are there in straight, neat rows.

Those rows don't stay neat for very long, however, because the regular customers know the best time to pay a visit is late summer. The mums go fast.

Mary Lloyd said she and her husband decided to start the flowery business after taking a trip to Hagerstown, Md., where they saw a family who had a mum patch and sold mums directly from it.

She said she and Donald also just like the fall season and that chrysanthemums are one of their favorite varieties of flowers.

Each year they plant more than 4,000 plants. All their plants come from new rooted cuttings that they get from three different suppliers, Mary Lloyd said.

She said most mums are raised in the South because it is cheaper to grow the cuttings in the warmer climate.

Mums aren't hard to grow, she said, but they are shallow rooted and need well-drained soil.

"You can't bury them," Mary Lloyd said, adding that the plants will bloom until the first hard frost of late fall.

The customer asks for advice on the best way to care for her purchases.

For the Lloyds, planting season starts in May. After the initial planting, Mary Lloyd said, the plants will produce many, many buds.

To get a nice full plant, you have to pinch the buds off twice in May, she said, and then again in June. The June pinching is the roughest because each plant has a lot of buds by that time and the process is quite time-consuming, she said.

Over time, she said, the business has changed to meet the demands of its customers.

The Lloyds used to sell potted mums in small containers. Last year, she said, they started using different-sized pots, which can hold two and four plants apiece.

The dig-your-own option was started three years ago.

The Lloyds provide advice to their customers on how to care for the plants after they sell them.

To prepare the mums for winter sleep place several inches of mulch around each plant after it is finished blooming to protect its roots from the cold.

It is important to keep the plants well drained, especially in the early spring when the roots swell to send up new shoots. If the ground is saturated at that time, the roots will smother and rot, Mary Lloyd said.

The big selling season for the Lloyd's business starts in mid-august and lasts about 10 weeks.

All varieties seem to sell well because there is a color for almost every taste in flowers. Mary Lloyd said she likes all the beautiful fall colors, but that her favorite is a deep red mum called the Bravo.

Landscape businesses and florists make up a good portion of their customers, she said, but not the biggest part.

There is plenty of traffic lured to her field off the busy Walnut Bottom Road, she said.

Many customers are regulars whose faces she sees like clockwork every year. Others, she said, just catch a glimpse of all those colors as they drive by. A lot of U-turns are made by the Lloyd's place.

"Our location is a big plus," she observed.

CONNIE LEINBACH
Berks Co. Correspondent

READING (Berks Co.) — When you go to the Reading Fair to eat, forget the trailers of pizza and french fries such as you see at most every festival. Head instead for The Grange Cookery.

It's near the livestock exhibits. You can't miss it. The aroma of homestyle cooking will guide you there. Afterwards, the smell of fried food and powdered sugar clings to you like a favorite cologne.

Here one can indulge one's sometimes urgent cravings for all those foods we're increasingly not supposed to eat: hamburgers from the Shartlesville Grange, sausage sandwiches from the Topton Grange; chicken corn soup or baked potatoes from the Gouglersville Grange; ham sandwiches from the Centerport grange, homemade apple dumplings from the Central Berks Lions Club.

Then there's the treat that has become a staple at fairs and festivals across the state and beyond — funnel cakes.

There's something about the funnel cakes made by the Virginville Grange members that's unlike any other funnel cake around.

"They have a different taste; they're not blah," says Helen Readinger, wife of A. Wayne Readinger, who is president of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs. The Readingers travel to most of the more than 100 fairs across the state each year. And they sample a lot of food.

The taste of Reading Fair funnel cakes is indeed different, says Esther Stitzel, women's activities chair, because these are the originals.

Two grange members began making funnel cakes 43 years ago at the Kutztown Folk Festival, she explains, flashing a smile brimming with pride. They were called "drechter kucher," Esther says. They were an instant hit.

"Now we have them all over the country," she notes.

These funnel cakes, like the other goodies you can eat at the grange stand, are not made from a mix. Several auxiliary members like Helen Epting, Marie Schaeffer, and Lillian Mengel toil for hours each fair day beating eggs and adding milk and flour to make the batter the perfect consistency.

They don't use a measuring cup. Like most experienced cooks, they just do it by feel. This batter also makes the apple fritters, which William Stitzel keeps sizzling all day long.

Steam billows from the soft, perfectly cooked dough when you bite into one of these morsels — crisp and brown on the outside.

The batter for the corn fritters is more carefully measured yielding generous corn pancakes ready for some maple syrup.

Hans Spease, lecturer, who runs the stand, said about 15 grange members work the stand during the day. Then the evening shift takes over around 3 until the fair closes at night.

Proof that the fritters at the Virginville grange are a big hit among fairgoers is their popularity.

"Sometimes the customers stand in three lines to get them," Spease said.

Customers looking for a grand meal before they partake of fritters can begin their quota of Pennsylvania Dutch cooking at the Alleghenyville Grange stand.

Here, one can get a meal of chicken potpie, pepper cabbage, apple sauce and chow-chow — every bit of it homemade.

Annagrace Lorah, the main cook, makes the pot pie and all 150 quarts of chow-chow and 100 quarts of applesauce the stand sells during fair week. She grows the vegetables — cauliflower, carrots, beans, pickles, celery, onions, lima beans, corn — and her father, Harvey Redcay, tends them, about an acre's worth.

This fare, plus all the other Pennsylvania Dutch cooking one can get in the Reading area, is the best around, says Linda Summers, one of the workers at the Allegheny Grange stand.

"I'm from Lancaster, but I think the food here in Berks County is the best," she says.

Concurring nods come from her co-workers, Ruth Haag and Bob Adams.

"It's a lot of work, but it's fun," Annagrace says.

Andy Hess of Robesonia can't wait to devour the homemade chicken potpie, applesauce, and pepper cabbage made by members of the Alleghenyville Grange, Ruth Haag and Linda Summers.

You can't beat the delectable apple fritters, corn fritters, and funnel cakes made by members of the Virginville Grange. From left, William Stitzel, Esther Treichler, Hans Spease, Eva Treichler, Ester Stitzel, and Helen Epting. In back are Lillina Mengel and Marie Schaeffer.

David Siegfried, 5, of Bernville R.D.2, knows exactly what he wants at the Reading Fair — a homemade funnel cake.

SCHOOL BREAKFAST PROMOTES LEARNING

Studies continue to show that breakfast is an important part of the day. A good breakfast can help us feel better and concentrate harder. Yet, every morning millions of children start school with empty stomachs.

According to a 1989 report from the American School Health Association, 48 percent of girls and 32 percent of boys in a national survey of eight and 10th graders had not eaten breakfast on five or more days during the preceding week.

Fourth graders in a 1991 University of Connecticut study reflect common statistics: 25 percent had not eaten breakfast every morning, and of those who did, 42 percent made their own breakfast at home.

The reasons children skip breakfast are many. Some are just not hungry first thing in the morning. Others prefer to sleep until the last minute. For today's families, time and energy are at a premium in the morning. Currently 93 percent of households in America with school-age children have either a single-working parent or both parents working.

But for a growing number of children, breakfast is not even an option. They are part of the 5.5 million children in Americanunder the age of 12 who, according to a recent study conducted by the Food Research and Action Center in Washington, D.C., go to school hungray because there is no food in the house.

For school districts who care, the National School Breakfast Program is a solution. As an entitlement program, national school breakfast funds are available to help reimburse any public or private non-profit school or residential child care institution that wishes to partcipate in the program. Less than half of the schools nationwide take advantage of the School Breakfast program.

Children who participate in school breakfast receive one-half pint of fluid milk; one-half cup of fruit, vegetable and/or juice; and two servings of some combination of bread, cereal, meat, or meat alternate. The cost varies depending on parental income.

School Breakfast is an optional program that requires local support to be successful. If you are interested in seeing breakfast in your school, talk with your local school administrators, including your school food service department.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

These last few brisk mornings make me think of potting my houseplants. They are planted in two short rows in the vegetable garden.

I know that if I put them outside in the spring they will be much healthier in the fall. It is amazing to see the way that three different vines have spread. I'll put them in hanging baskets but even then many will have to be left outside to die.

People ask me where I'll put everything and I tell them that I have two large bay windows. And, I can always move things closer together on the window-sills.

My husband is getting to be an expert at making shelves. These are heavy shelves that could hold kegs of nails. He made several for our basement and three for our children. They were almost too big to get down the stairs in the New Jersey house but our daughter assured her father that if she moved, they would go with her.

My sister tells me that her husband makes wooden boxes and then more wooden boxes. He has one for every job be it large or small. Another brother-in-law was an industrial arts teacher and is quite talented. He has made both metal and wooden items as gifts. It is a hobby that makes things that can become heirlooms.

My flowers and plants will never be heirlooms but they can create memories. The flowers that some of my relatives grew are my remembrance of them. Until last year I had two plants that belonged to my grandmother.

Pumpkin Path House Tour

ADAMSTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — The Adamstown Woman's Club is conducting their 10th annual "Pumpkin Path House Tour" on Sunday, November 1. All proceeds from the tour will benefit the Adamstown Library Center.

There are 10 stops on this year's tour: A home that was a one-room school converted to a lovely home furnished with antiques and collectibles. Another dating back to the 1860s decorated with finds from travels of the U.S.A., Mexico, Spain, and South America. A charming contemporary, decorated elegantly by the homeowners. A French Contemporary with double-wide entrance doors that open to a three-level home with numerous features: 5 fireplaces, an open curved oak staircase, a teenager's suite, guest quarters with full kitchen, and bath.

A local artist who has supported the Library with prints of Adamstown's Historical buildings will be displaying some of his latest watercolor paintings.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 18

The September meeting was held in the home of Dorothy Brubaker, with 21 members attending. Each member told how they use herbs. Mary Lou Shelton had devotions.

Martha Stoner gave an interesting talk on the "Heritage Seed Program" at Landis Valley Museum.

The society will be giving $200 to the county project.

This month Society #18 with Society #13 provided prizes and helped the guests at Conestoga View play bingo.

A bus trip is planned for September 29th to Baltimore Harbor.

Farm Women's Day, October 14, will be a brunch at Willow Valley Palm Court.

Evelyn Brubaker will be hostess for the October meeting at Kreider's Restaurant. The program is "Rag Dolls" by Bernice Wagner.

Berks Society 3

Group 3 of the Berks County Society of Farm Women held its September meeting at the home of Lillian Bucks, Indian Lane, Boyertown. Eleven members were present.

Eight members plan to attend the County Convention at Haag's Hotel in Shartlesville on Saturday, October 3. Group 3 will celebrate Farm Women's Day with a shopping trip to Coventry Mall followed by ice cream sundaes at Friendly's Restaurant.

A donation was made to B.A.C.H. Group 3 will sponsor a child for Christmas through Multi-Service. Berks Heim bingo will be at the Annex on Thursday, November 12.

The next meeting will be a Halloween party at the home of Mayetta Shane, Valley Road, Boyertown. Members who are not in costume will pay a fine.

York Society 7

York Society of Farm Women met at the home of Rena Prowell on September 9, at 7:00 p.m. Edna Brothers served as co-hostess.

Fourteen members answered roll call by naming a kitchen item that they had used when first married.

Nancy Emswiler and Edna Brothers read Scripture and poems.

A monetary donation was sent to William Zinn, son of Anna Zinn, to help restore his family's losses from Hurricane Andrew in Holmstead, Fla.

The group is selling 1993-1994 two-year planning calendars and are planning a sub-sale on October 19-20.

Household items were brought to the meeting and were sold at a silent auction. Proceeds were added to the treasury.

Group #7 Starview was entertained by Group #31 from Dillsburg on August 17.

The next meeting night will follow a dinner at the Stonybrook Restaurant on October 14, at 6:00 p.m.

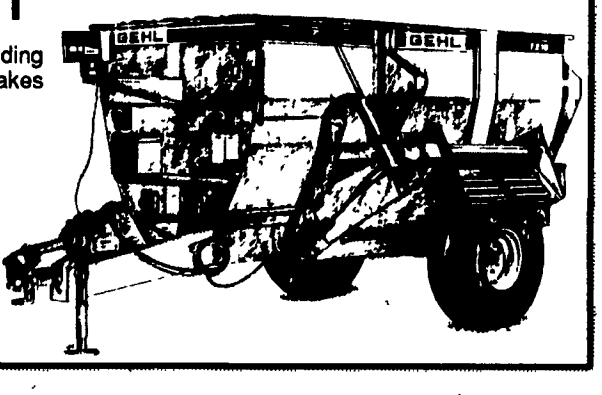
GEHL®

Gehl TMR Mixer Feeders Are #1

Nothing can maximize the return on investment in your dairy or beef feeding operation like a Total Mixed Ration (TMR) feeding system. And nothing makes TMR work better than a Gehl mixer feeder. Here's why:

- Better Mixing Action - Unique four-auger design creates a double figure-8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Energy Efficient - Planetary drive system requires less horsepower.
- Built To Last - Patented star couplers absorb shock loads by allowing the bottom augers to flex, providing long service life.
- Six Sizes - From 150 to 500 cubic feet mixing capacities.
- Three Styles - Trailer type, stationary and truck-mounted units to fit your operation.



Even When It's Empty...It's Loaded!

When you're checking out box–type manure spreaders, look to Gehl for a better spreader! Gehl box spreaders are available in five sizes ranging from 135 to 425 bushel heaped capacities. Gehl box spreaders deliver these and many more advanced features:

- Gehl-Tuff flooring is slippery so manure slides out easily.
- T-bar apron chains are extra-strong for durability.
- Galvanized steel sides are more corrosion resistant.
- Single or tandem axle models available.
- 10-year warranty on sides and floors.
- Hydraulic apron drive (optional) to match your specific application needs.

AUCTION SERVICE KLING'S

Berks County Extension Home Economist Fay Strickler watches as A. Wayne Readinger, president of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs, sneaks a bite of the prize-winning chocolate cake.

Confessions Of A Cookie, Cake, Pie Judge

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

READING (Berks Co.) — One look at the 17 apple pies, 15 chocolate cakes, and 11 platefuls of chocolate cookies, and I knew I was going to suffer stomach failure from a sugar high.

But Anne Louise Reinert and Gretal Ruppert brushed aside my fears with the promise, "Oh, you won't mind it a bit."

I was to help Reinert and Ruppert, veteran judges on the baked goods circuit, judge the pies, cakes, and cookie entries at the Reading Fair.

"Even if I take only one bite of every entry, think how much that will be!" I wailed.

"It's not as bad as you'd think. You won't even feel full," Ruppert promised.

I was skeptical.

We began with the chocolate cakes. According to the rules from Hershey Foods Corporation, which sponsors the competition with the Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs, the layered cake must be made from scratch and frosted. Hershey cocoa must be used in the recipe. If the cake is frosted with chocolate frosting, Hershey cocoa must be used in the recipe.

We used a score sheet, with points from 1 to 10 under each of the following categories: overall appearance, frosting appearance (too much or too little), cake texture, eveness of layers, color of cake, moistness, frosting texture, flavor of cake (weak or rich), and flavoring of frosting (weak or rich).

You can tell a lot by looking at a cake. Judge Anne Louise, a graduate of the Culinary Institute of America who bakes wedding cakes and desserts for a living, pointed out that the texture of a cake should not look coarse. If there are holes in the cake, it is overmixed.

One cake tasted dry, which I thought was due to overbaking, but Anne Louise read the recipe and said it was dry because it had an improper proportion of dry ingredients to moist ones.

"You can tell a lot by reading recipes. Just by reading a recipe, I can tell what it will taste like," said Anne Louise, whose hobby is reading recipes by the hour.

I wish that I could taste the recipes simply by reading the ingredients. It would be the easiest way I know to cut down on calories.

Although I don't have Anne Louise's knack for tasting a cake by reading the recipe, my sense of what tastes good and what doesn't seems to agree with Anne Louise's scientific assessment of ingredients. I knew when a cake was too moist or too dry.

One cake looked perfect to me. Chocolate cake with peanut butter frosting is difficult to beat. On the first taste, I thought I had a winner, but when the cake was tasted separately from the frosting, it was too dry, which lowered its score considerably.

The judges drank water and nibbled occasionally on bread cubes between entries so that the flavor of each entry could be savored.

After we tallied our scores in the cake category, we came up with the winner: Jane Reppert of Hamburg. Her cake holds a very simple title — Chocolate Cake. The recipe appears at the end of this article.

Normally, I'm not a cake person, so it must have been the chocolate that made cake tasting a pleasurable experience. When we began judging the greatest cocoa cookie, brownie, and bars contest, I looked forward to bite after bite of these chocolate delights.

Rules for the cookie recipe required that a plate of eight be made from scratch. That Hershey cocoa must be used in the recipe, and that only youth from ages 8 to 18 could enter.

One entry was eliminated because only 6 cookies appeared on the plate — maybe someone got hungry when transporting them to the contest.

Cookies were judged for equalness in size, overall appearance, texture and consistency, flavor, evidence that batter was not overly or under beaten, and that the cookies had not spread too much.

Fourteen-year-old Melanie Leiby of Kutztown took the top $20 prize for her Oatmeal Brownie Drops. By the time we chose the winning recipe, I knew that the saying the more chocolate you eat, the more you crave definitely holds some truth to it. Unfortunately, this contest taught me that I must be a true "chocoholic."

Gretal, Anne Louise, and I would have preferred to eat the whole plate from the winning entry instead of the one

Vote For Pork

DES MOINES, Iowa — The nation's pork industry urges every American to vote this fall — both at the polls and at the dinner table. And the industry's candidate for "most delectably electable" meat this autumn is none other than — fresh pork!

"My advice to consumers today, is to vote early and vote often with their forks this fall," says Joe Leathers, director of retail merchandising, National Pork Producers Council (NPPC). "The balance of trade is swinging favorably toward the consumer this fall. With supplies of fresh pork expected to increase throughout the fall, prices for many popular cuts will be holding steady or even coming down — and that's good news for every consumer seeking to hold the line on household food expenses."

What other meat can promise so much taste, so much versatility, so much hearty and nutritious goodness, at such an affordable cost as fresh pork? Not only is fall a traditionally popular time for fresh pork, but this fall the pork bandwagon is expected to be especially crowded as consumers discover that "The Other White Meat®" in all its deliciously varied cuts also may be priced at especially favorable levels in meat cases across the country.

Like any good political candidate, the fresh pork fall menu has something to offer just about everyone. No matter what your special taste interest, whether it's for sizzling steak or hearty soup, tasty taco salad or an Oktoberfest-oriented pork 'n kraut skillet, there's bound to be a dish for every dining occasion with fresh pork.

"Without a doubt, consumers will be hearing and seeing a lot about fresh pork at their grocers' meat cases this fall," says Robin Kline, registered dietician, NPPC director of consumer affairs. "That doesn't mean that the competition won't be talking up their own candidates — but when all is said and done, no other meat will be seen to offer consumers as many advantages. Pork has it all — a robust taste that smacks of the harvest season, huge versatility — you can substitute the word 'pork' in virtually any recipe that calls for a different kind of meat — and great nutritional character."

In fact, fresh pork is clearly impeccable in terms of its nutritional character. A 1991 USDA Market Basket "investigation" into the true character of fresh pork sold at the nation's retail meat cases objectively supported the industry's own claims to improved leanness and nutritional attributes. According to the USDA in its "Pork Products, Handbook 8-10," nine fresh pork cuts commonly sold at the meat case are under 200 calories per three-ounce serving.

Consumers can find the answers to all their fall mealtime questions in a special brochure, "The Delicious Dozen." The brochure outlines 12 versatile pork meals that consumers can't afford to miss this fall. To obtain a free copy — and to learn more about why you should vote with your fork for fresh pork this fall — send a self-addressed stamped envelope to: The Delicious Dozen, National Pork Producers Council, P.O. Box 10383; Des Moines, IA 50306.

cookie that we divided among ourselves.

In order to pick the Blue Ribbon Apple Pie, the entries were judged for overall appearance, crust color, flavor, texture, and doneness, and the filling consistency, doneness, flavor, and creativity.

Some pies that are absolute favorites with your family and friends might not pass the judges' criteria. Some people prefer a runny apple pie, but judges demand that the filling holds its shape when cut. While it shouldn't be soupy, it also should not be too stiff. Some pies appeared baked on the top but the lower crust was underbaked — lots of demerits for that goof.

Crust should be flaky but not to the point that it falls apart. Streakiness in the crust reveals that it was undermixed; gumminess indicates that it was overmixed.

A two-crust apple pie, which was artistically etched with a design was an impressive entry, but when cut there was about a two-inch gap between the crust and filling. The judges frowned on this. According to Anne Louise, the filling of a two-crust pie should always be cooked before pouring it into the crust. This prevents air pockets and bubbles from forming when the filling is heaped on top.

Gretal, who is a caterer, does not agree that the filling should always be cooked separately, but she does examine the crust for shrinkage. If you brush the sides of crust with water and seal the dough before crimping around the edges, you don't get as much shrinkage.

Creativity abounded in the apple pie contest with such additions as cherries, caramel, peanut butter, and schnapps. While the pie with cherries was very delicious, it tasted more like a cherry than an apple pie — not a plus in apple pie competition, but for taste, it was a great pie.

As judges, we had a difficult time agreeing on the top pie. By this time, I was so stuffed and feeling slightly nauseous from all that sugar, that I could not take another bite to determine the winner.

Finally, we placed Julia Freeman's Honey Apple Crumb Pie at the top of the list. It was closely followed by Apple Pecan Crumb, and a Caramel Apple Pie.

Each of the first place winners are eligible to compete at the Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg in January.

As judges, we did not have access to the names of the entries until judging was completed.

Although I'd like to believe that we were unbiased judges, it's debatable. One judge does not like peanut butter, another doesn't like caramel, and another doesn't like the flavor of schnapps. Although you can judge on appearance, color without bias, it's difficult to give a high score for flavor if you don't like the taste of one of the ingredients. Given another set of judges, you'd probably have another set of winners.

So for those who didn't make it to the top this year, try next year. A new set of judges may be exactly what you need to make your favorite recipe a winner.

OATMEAL BROWNIE DROPS

¾ cup granulated sugar
½ cup butter
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup flour
½ cup Hershey's cocoa
¼ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats
1 cup semi-sweet chocolate mini chips

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Beat sugar and butter until well blended. Add eggs and vanilla and mix thoroughly. Add dry ingredients except for oatmeal and chocolate chips and beat. Stir in oatmeal and chocolate chips. Drop by tablespoonful on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 7 to 8 minutes or until set. Makes 3½ dozen.

CHOCOLATE CAKE

Mix together:
½ cup shortening
2 cups sugar
2 eggs

Sift together and add:
2 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt

Add dry ingredients alternately with

Add:
1 cup hot coffee

Pour cake into layer pans and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Chocolate Cooked Icing:
1 cup sugar
3½ tablespoons cornstarch
6 tablespoons cocoa
Pinch salt
1 cup water
2 tablespoons vegetable oil

Mix water with cornstarch in saucepan. Combine cocoa and oil and add to cornstarch mixture and remaining ingredients while cooking over low heat about 10 minutes, stirring constantly.

REAL ESTATE AUCTION
3 FARMS! 320+ ACRES! 3 FARMS!

For Dr. & Mrs. Robert N. Ragland. After a number of years of hands-on farming besides his professional vocation, Dr. Ragland wishes to engage in other pursuits, and will offer the farms at public auction.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1992
10:00 A.M.

On the premises at R.D. #3 Lutz Rd., Stewartstown, PA 17363. Rt. I-83, take Exit #1 and follow Rt. 851 east to Stewartstown, left on W. Penna. Ave., right on Main St., left on College Ave. at funeral home, and continue 3 mi. on Rt. 851 to Pleasant Valley Rd. Leave Rt. 851 and go straight ahead on Pleasant Valley Rd. to Stop sign. Right on Blue Ball Rd. and immediately right onto Lutz Rd. Follow Lutz Rd. 1 mi. to Farm #1 on the right.

FARM #1: The Ragland Residence, known as "Heritage Manor Farm." Consisting of 153+ acres. 90+ acres tillable. In a high state of cultivation, in small grains, soybeans and corn. Barns & pens w/slatted floors. Silos and automated feeding system for 250 head of cattle. 2 stalls for horses. Frame dwelling has Master Suite plus 3 bedrooms, large eat-in kitchen, formal dining room, Hunt Room w/fireplace, and 2½ baths. Contoured and terraced fields for water control. Large pond for beauty, recreation, irrigation and fire protection. The serious farmer or the gentleman investor will find this a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. This is an outstanding crop farm. It has been, and can again be a steer feeding operation. And it lends itself to immediatle use as a cow-calf/beef-finishing operation.

FARM #2: This farm, presently an integral part of the three-farm package, consists of land-only, with no improvements. It has 59 acres m/l of land, with 40 acres m/l tillable. It has 3 building rights, 2 of which already have 1+ acre lots sub-divided, approved, perked and probed. This farm, of exceptionally fine cropland, is a very desirable and valuable property on its own, or purchased in combination with Farm #1 and/or Farm #3.

FARM #3: From Farm #1 go back out Lutz Rd. to the Stop sign. Turn right onto Blue Ball Rd. and go ½ mi. to farm lane on right. A beautiful farm in its own right. This property has many features which will commend it to the serious discriminating buyer. 109+ acres. Approximately 100 acres tillable and in a high state of cultivation. The frame dwelling has a 4+ bedrooms. Fine bank barn with a 20'x50' cement silo & nearly new unloader. Set up to feed approx. 100 head of cattle. The layout of the steer barn readily lends itself to conversion to boxstalls for horses. A new spring-fed pond has recently been constructed. This farm has one extra building right, and has a second right-of-way to the farm from Lutz Rd.

TERMS: A down-payment of 10% of the gavel price in cash or guaranteed funds is required on day of auction. Balance due in-full on or before January 8, 1993.

INSPECTION: For private appointment, phone the owner at (717) 993-2717 or contact the auctioneers. Open House for tours of the land and inspection of the buildings will be held on Sunday, October 11, 18 & 25 - 1:00 to 4:00 P.M. Phone 717-741-4489 For Color Brochure.

Soil Fertility Improves Water Use

NORCROSS, Ga. — We need a good rain!

Sords such as those are heard every year in most areas of the country. Farmers are thinking about moisture conservation, moisture efficiency, and water quality as they plan profitable crop production systems.

They know that crops managed for optimum economic production also do the best job of increasing water use efficiency and protecting water quality. Farmers using best management practices provide the double benefit of abundant, low-cost food as well as production and efficient utilization of our precious water resource.

Research has shown us that best management practice systems are site-specific. Agronomic factors making up production systems change for different soils and crops. Two factors very important to all systems are conservation tillage and adequate fertilization. The two complement each other in helping farmers achieve their goal of profitable production with minimum impact on the environment.

Use of the proper conservation tillage system will reduce soil erosion, surface runoff, and evaporation from exposed soil, while increasing water infiltration from rainfall. The Soil Conservation Service notes that 50 percent of soil erosion is controlled with 20 percent crop residue cover. This increases to 94 percent erosion control with 80 percent residue cover. Here is where adequate soil fertility plays a major role. Good fertilization practices are required for higher yields and associated increases in crop residue. Therefore, conservation tillage and adequate fertilization work together in a best management practice system to help provide more profitable yields and greater water use efficiency.

Proper plant nutrition through adequate fertilization stretches moisture supplies. Good soil fertility doesn't replace water, but does help crops use it more efficiently. Good plant nutrition increases root exploration of the soil, bringing roots into contact with more stored moisture. A 10-year summary of the famous Morrow research plots in Illinois indicated 3.5 times more corn per inch of annual moisture with high fertility compared to low soil fertility.

Farmers cannot afford to waste the resources of soil and available water. Use of sound soil fertility and conservation tillage programs coupled with the other best management practices helps protect our vital resources.

'Super Clean' Steer Wins Championship For Gelsinger

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

READING (Berks Co.) — The judged asked to use her steer as an example for all the junior fitters and showmen in the ring at the Reading Fair Beef Show last week.

Tammy Gelsinger, Wernersville, removed her Polled Hereford calf from the bridle cage and paraded the steer in front of the other show ring exhibitors. Judge Ken Winebark, Lebanon County livestock agent, spoke of the steer as an example of what a champion fitter needs to have — a "super, super clean" animal, he said.

"This gives everyone an opportunity to watch what are the results of the learning process that we see in 4-H programs," said Winebark. "This is what it is really all about."

Gelsinger had a blue-ribbon day, going on to win reserve grand showman (Troy Gelsinger won grand) and overall market grand champion.

In all, there were a total of 20 exhibitors and about 27 cattle at the show. Following is a list of show placings.

Cattle Producers Pool Calves

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — Do you feel you are raising quality calves? Are you continually frustrated by the low prices you receive for feeder calves in northeastern Pennsylvania? Would you like to receive Harrisonburg, Va. feeder cattle prices for your calves?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, than you need to get in touch with the Wayne County Cattle Producers.

With the help of Penn State Cooperative Extension, the Wayne County Cattle Producer's Association is attempting to put together a feeder calf pool for area beef producers. They have been in contact with a central Pennsylvania cattle feeder willing to pay top dollar for uniform groups of feeder cattle.

The Cattle Producer's Association is currently taking the names of interested cattle producers. If you have quality 1993 calves, heifers or steers which will weigh between 400 to 600 pounds at weaning time, give the Association a call.

Good feeder cattle pricing opportunities are somewhat limited in northeastern Pennsylvania. As part of their effort to serve the northeastern Pennsylvania cattle producers, the Wayne County Cattle Producer's Association is attempting to help area producers expand their marketing efforts.

For more information about the feeder calf pool, call Ron Skubic, (717)448-2074; John Williams, (717)729-8413; or Kent Swartz, (717)488-6946.

NEWCASTLE DISEASE OUTBREAK — ANOTHER IMPORTANT REASON TO PRACTICE BIOSECURITY IN POULTRY FLOCKS

Dr. Patty Dunn
Dept. of Veterinary Science

Last month, USDA-APHIS released a bulletin announcing a Newcastle disease outbreak that began earlier in the summer in the Great Lakes area.

Thousands of cormorants and pelicans have succumbed to the viral infection in Minnesota and Michigan, and deaths in similar bird populations in the Dakotas and Canada are thought to be related.

The National Veterinary Services Laboratory in Ames, Iowa, has characterized the virus from Minnesota as velogenic neurotropic Newcastle disease virus, the type that can cause severe nervous system disease in susceptible birds. It is assumed that domestic poultry flocks could be susceptible to this strain.

At least two poultry operations in North Dakota — one large range turkey premise and one small backyard flock of mixed poultry — have shown serologic evidence of Newcastle disease infection in association with high mortality. All poultry farmers in the area have been encouraged to tighten biosecurity measures for the protection of their flocks in response to the increased threat of infectious disease.

Although the north central flyway seems far away to poultry producers in Pennsylvania, it is wise to be cautious in response to this news. Moreover, there is very recent evidence of Newcastle disease virus affecting cormorants in the New Brunswick area just north of Maine, part of the eastern flyway. Although cormorants are nonmigratory, the possibility of migratory waterfowl becoming infected cannot be ruled out. There is reason for extra caution this fall as geese and other waterfowl migrate through our state.

Biosecurity is talked about a lot, but not always practiced to the level that will be beneficial to the poultry flock. Biosecurity is similar to an insurance policy in that it can not guarantee that disaster will not strike. However, a biosecure flock is less likely to be exposed to a dangerous situation. If infection does occur, it will be less likely to spread to the fullest extent because of early detection of the problem and quick responsive action.

All biosecurity efforts are aimed at keeping infectious agents (bacteria, viruses, fungi) away from poultry, and poultry away from infectious agents. Awareness of potential disease problems in the area, vigilance over the flock to detect health problems, and avoiding potential sources of contamination are important components of a biosecurity program.

Potential contact with wild birds, including waterfowl and seabirds, should be eliminated. Openings or holes in poultry houses should be closed over. Limit visitors to those necessary to service the flock. Record any visitors including service and delivery personnel that come in contact with the flock or the poultry facilities.

Ideally, vehicles and tires should be sanitized. Clean clothing and disinfection facilities should be available to employees.

Movement of all poultry or products from farm to farm should be controlled. Cleaning and disinfection of facilities and equipment between flocks is important. If signs of illness and/or increased mortality occur, prompt diagnosis of the flock disease problem is necessary to implement correct treatment or containment plans and to prevent spread. Use the diagnostic laboratory in your area for this purpose.

Biosecurity is not only aimed at "emergency" diseases such as Newcastle disease and avian influenza. When practiced on a day-to-day basis, biosecurity efforts can decrease the chances of your flock becoming infected with laryngotracheitis, cholera, mycoplasmosis, and other conditions that cause production losses.

Several pamphlets on the specifics of biosecurity are available from The Pennsylvania State University Cooperative Extension and the Mid-Atlantic Cooperative Extension. USDA has a series of videotapes on the subject that may be borrowed for viewing by contacting The Pennsylvania State University Department of Veterinary Science poultry extension personnel at (814) 863-0837.

White Oak Promotes Lemmon

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — White Oak Mills has announced the promotion of Bruce Lemmon to manager of B & D Acres, Tyrone, a 600-sow ProGenetics multiplier farm specializing in gilt production.

The ProGenetics division of White Oak Mills develops top-quality breeding stock from Duroc, Hampshire, Landrace, Yorkshire, and Large White bloodlines. To ensure efficient and profitable production, Lemmon will oversee the daily operations of the Tyrone unit and assist in breeding, farrowing, and health control.

Lemmon grew up on a 50-sow farm in Newburg and pursued his agricultural career at Penn State University, where he served as vice president of the Block and Bridle Club. He was graduated in 1990 with a bachelor's in agricultural science.

Before joining White Oak Mills in December 1991, Lemmon managed 175 sows (from farrow to finish) for Kent Strock, president of the Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council.

A resident of Tyrone, Lemmon

Bruce Lemmon

is an active member of the South Central Pennsylvania Pork Producers Association and the Cumberland Valley Tractor Pullers Association.

Case IH Honors C.B. Hoober & Son

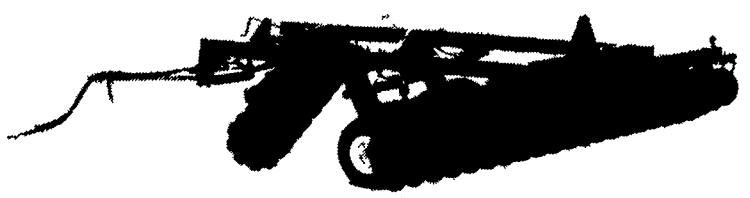
Disks Feature One-Piece Welded Frames

MOLINE, Ill. — John Deere has introduced the new 670 Series single offset disks with one-piece welded frames, straight cast gang standards, and several features common on the 600 Series tandem disks. The 670 Series replaces the 355 and 355HD (heavy duty) Series disks.



The John Deere 670 Series single offset disks feature one-piece welded frames to resist torsional forces and ensure even disking performance. Single-point depth control provides a simple, convenient adjustment at the front of the disk for setting depth.

The 3x7 inch tubular steel in the welded frame resists torsional forces and helps ensure consistent depth and level disking performance. Disk gangs constructed of 4x6 inch tubular steel complement the strength and durability of the frame for handling demanding conditions.

The same frame is used on all twelve sizes of the 670 Series, whether the disk is on 9 inch or 11 inch blade spacing. Sizes range from 11 feet 11 inches to 20 feet 4 inches. Weight per blade with standard equipment varies from 135 to 160 pounds on 9 inch spacing and 153 to 174 pounds on 11 inch spacing for aggressive performance in primary tillage.

Straight cast standards, also used on the 640/650 Series tandem disks, are heavier and stronger than the swept back standards on the 355 Series and offer better mounting of self-adjusting combination scrapers for improved soil flow in wet conditions. A rigid position is provided for the scrapers in light soil conditions to minimize blade wear.

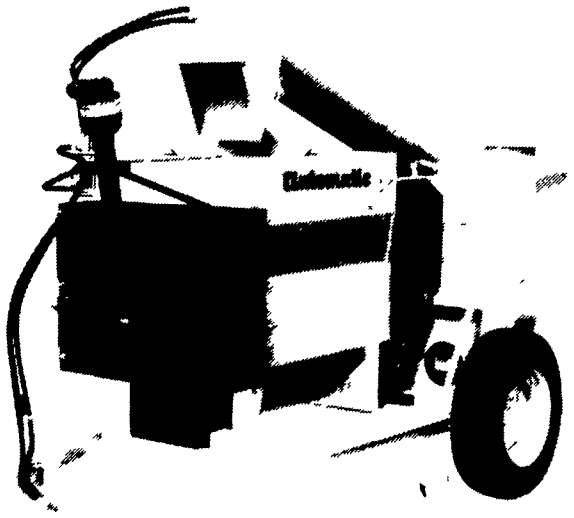
The disks feature standard 24 inch solid blades. Other 24 inch blade configurations and 26 inch solid blades are available as options. A two-blade taper and furrow filler on the rear gang increases leveling performance. A single-blade taper is provided on the front gang.

Gang angle can be adjusted to match soil conditions. The front gang angle can be set at 16, 19, and 22 degrees and the rear at 18, 21, and 24 degrees.

The standard single-point depth control provides a convenient way to select an infinite range of depths from the front of the machine.

The self-leveling hitch permits the disk to work level in the field and transport level. The hitch also does not transfer weight to the tractor. This allows the disk to use all of its weight for maximum penetration. The long, narrow design of the hitch enables the disk to maintain an even disking depth through swales and crowns in the field and accommodate tractors with duals. A hand crank provides easy fore/aft leveling to compensate for varying soil conditions.

The hitch angle can be adjusted for line of draft in different soil conditions and to move the disk behind the tractor for transport. Optional hydraulic control provides an infinite range of adjustment and permits on-the-go operation for increased productivity. Mechanical adjustment is standard.



The Automatic ATG Roller Mills, with a 3600 BPH capacity, roll both shelled corn and cob to produce a high quality feed mix. By using cobs in feed mix, less actual corn is needed, stretching a farmer's corn supply to last longer.

Stretch Yields Further With Roller Mills

PENDER, Neb. — Dairy farmers using Automatic Equipment Mfg. Co.'s ATG Roller Mills can realize an increase in yields with their feed corn.

The Automatic ATG Roller Mills, with a 3,600 BPH capacity, roll both shelled corn and cob to produce a high quality feed mix. By using cobs in feed mix, less actual corn is needed, stretching a farmer's corn supply to last longer.

The ATG Roller Mills use high carbon steel rolls to ensure mill durability. A one-fast-roll principle is used to make for a more uniform feed and to prevent the mill from plugging. This principle requires one of the high carbon steel rolls to turn faster than the other to cut the corn, as opposed to hammering it. In doing so, the one-fast-roll principle requires less horsepoer than that of a hammermill of equal size.

Other ATG Roller Mill features include a big capacity hopper, a heavy duty PTO, 54 inch blower or auger discharge, and hydraulic intake auger.

White-New Idea Announces Test Results

COLDWATER, Ohio — Tests conducted last fall on residue levels resulting from various configurations of the White 445 Combination Chisel were recently released by White-New Idea Farm Equipment Co.

The tests show measurable residue can range from a high of 54 percent to as little as 27 percent, depending on how the 445 is set up. This reflects as little as a 31 percent to as much as a 58 percent residue reduction.

The tests showed a 20 percent difference between the use of 2-inch straight points and 4-inch twisted shovels. By changing shank spacing from 12 inches to 15 inches, a mere 4 percent difference occurred. Tests also showed that a leveling bar attachment actually helped uniformly spread residue for a higher residue measurement than an identical setup without a leveling bar.

The test field, located near Waverly, Iowa, had a beginning measurable residue level of 85 percent. The field was virtually untouched after harvesting 160 bushels per acre of corn. All tests were conducted at 5 mph. All measurements were supervised by Iowa Soil Conservation Service personnel.

Description of the actual setups and the resulting measurable residue levels are available from White-New Idea. To order, write or call for "445 Residue Test Results," 123 W. Sycamore, Coldwater, OH 45828, (800) 767-3221.

Daview Pete Ginger Daughter Tops At Reading Dairy Show

CONNIE LEINBACH
Berks Co. Correspondent

READING (Berks Co.) — Jeffrey Davis of Leesport may have found himself another top-winning cow in 3-year-old Daview Mark Gina, who was named grand champion Holstein of the Reading Fair last week. Gina is the daughter of Jeffrey's 6-year-old Daview Pete Ginger, who has won quite a few top honors herself.

Last week it was time for her daughter as well as others Jeff owns, including championships for best udder, best three females, best dam and daughter, and best produce of dam.

Amy Hollenbach of Bernville won the reserve grand champion of the youth show and Susan, her sister, won the junior champion of the open. She and her sister, Susan, and brother, Daniel, swept all of the honors in the Guernsey division. They were the only Guernsey exhibitors at the fair.

Showing the grand champion Ayrshire was Rob and Sharon Nolan of Cochranville, Chester County, who had a 6-year-old champion, Masonic-Homes Captain Beauty. Son Kevin had the reserve grand champion, a senior 2-year-old Creamnol Johnny's Snow. This cow also was the grand champion of the junior show. Brian Nolan's senior 2-year-old, Dreamnol Johnny's Kassy, won the reserve grand champion of the junior show.

In the Jersey show, Mark Hix of Bernville had the grand champion and Lynne Koinski of Mohrsville had the reserve grand champion.

Craig Nolan also had the grand champion heifer of the Jersey show and Michael Haag of Mohrsville had the reserve grand champion. Both were intermediate calves.

Randy Balthaser of Bernville won the grand and reserve grand champion Brown Swiss.

More than 200 dairy cattle were registered at the fair, said Dave Schuler, who helped run the contest.

Governor's School Honors Hagen

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Daniel R. Hagen, associate professor of animal science, was honored by the 1992 Pennsylvania Governor's School for the Agricultural Sciences with an award for his outstanding teaching contribution to the school.

The Governor's School, held annually on Penn State's University Park Campus, attracts some of the brightest high school students from across the commonwealth.

For five weeks, tenth and eleventh grade students from a variety of rural and urban backgrounds participate in hands-on laboratories and classroom lectures in the College of Agricultural Sciences. Hagen guided this year's young scholars through in-depth laboratory and field experiences that covered topics such as reproductive anatomy, egg maturation and fertilization, fetal development, and palpating cows.

Daniel R. Hagen

"The Governor's School is a great experience for the faculty because we get to work with some of the best students in the state," said Hagen, "and it's good for the students because they get to experience college life firsthand.

Marianne Houser, university director for the school, said the student vote for Hagen was unanimous. Hagen was unable to accept the award in person because he was helping to host the annual meeting of the American Society of Animal Science in Pittsburgh.

Polled Hereford Association Announces Feedlot Test

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — A nationwide feedlot test and carcass evaluation program initiated by the American Polled Hereford Association (APHA), will begin in December at Dulaney Feedyards, Great Bend, Kan.

Called the "Kansas National Feedlot Test and Carcass Evaluation," the new testing program is a logical follow-up to the highly successful test conducted at the Dulaney yards the past two years by the Kansas Polled Hereford Association (PHA). This year's spring-born calves will be delivered in December, with cattle ready for market in early summer of 1993.

"The APHA has teamed up with the Kansas PHA to establish this test for Polled Hereford breeders," said Dr. John Hough, APHA vice president for education and research. "It not only will give us valuable feedlot performance data, it also will allow us to identify those sires whose calves perform well on feed and on the rail.

"Another benefit of the national test is the data base we can build on carcass traits which eventually can be incorporated into expected progeny differences (EPDs) and our National Sire Summary," he said.

Goals of the program are to establish the feedlot and carcass merit of Polled Herefords and Polled Hereford-sired Baldies, identify Polled Hereford bulls who sire cattle superior in feedlot and carcass traits, begin a carcass central data bank, recognize and reward breeders and owners of superior feedlot and carcass cattle, and make a profit for each individual consignor.

Polled Hereford breeders may consign any number of straightbred or Polled Hereford-sired Baldy steers. Entry fees are nominal, and breeders and owners of top-performing cattle will be recognized through a variety of award categories.

The test is designed for calves born in spring 1992 weighing between 475 and 700 pounds at delivery. The cattle will be managed and fed with the consignors' profit as a goal.

"Knowledge of feedlot and carcass genetics is very important to today's seedstock producer," Hough said. "Value-based marketing is just around the corner. Breeders who actually know the carcass characteristics of their cattle will be at a decided advantage in the near future.

"We're urging all Polled Hereford breeders to consign their own steers or steers of their bull customers to the test. Carcass information will be collected on all animals using the new National Cattlemen's Association Carcass Data Service. Dulaney Feedyards is enrolled on this program, with data being collected by university personnel."

For more information, contact Hough at APHA, 11020 NW Ambassador Dr., Kansas City, MO 64153, (816) 891-8400.

Penn State Dedicates Forest

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — A 33-acre woodlot on the site of Penn State's Ag Progress Days has been named a Stewardship Forest as part of a federal program to bring 25 million acres of U.S. woodlands under stewardship management, an approach designed to maximize the benefits of forestland to society and landowners.

Managed by the school of forest resources in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, the woodlot shows landowners, students, and others interested in the environment how proper management enhances forests.

The woodlot was dedicated at this year's Ag Progress Days in August, during a ceremony attended by Pennsylvania state forester James Nelson and administrators and faculty from the college.

"The Forest Stewardship Demonstration Woodlot symbolizes our college's commitment to the wise management of natural resources," said Dr. Lamartine Hood, dean of the college. "It will serve as a model of woodlot management for years to come."

"Over the years — and sometimes through past mistakes — we've learned a great deal about using forests for multiple benefits without destroying the delicate balance among the plants, animals and natural resources in a forest ecosystem," said Dr. Stephen Jones, assistant professor of forestry and co-director of the educational component of Pennsylvania's Forest Stewardship Program.

"Forestland owners can reap economic benefits from timbering without sacrificing other benefits of forests, such as air and water purification, soil conservation, wildlife habitat, and recreational and aesthetic values."

The woodlot is open to visitors between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. seven days a week. It is located at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rock Springs, nine miles southwest of State College on Route 45.

Visitors can take a self-guided walking tour that shows how a forest can be managed for diverse benefits. The tour booklet, available at the site, was prepared by Jennifer Giancola, a student in the 1991 Pennsylvania Governor's School for the Agricultural Sciences.

The woodlot extends Penn State's commitment to the Pennsylvania Forest Stewardship Program, which provides educational, technical, and financial assistance to those who own or use the 12.5 million acres of privately held forestland throughout the state. Penn State is developing the public awareness and educational aspects of the program.

For more information on the Forest Stewardship Demonstration Woodlot, contact Pennsylvania's Forest Stewardship Program at (800) 235-WISE, or write to the program c/o Forest Resources Extension, The Pennsylvania State University, 110 Ferguson Building, University Park, PA 16802-4300.

Quality Feed, Hog Create Winning Combination

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

READING (Berks Co.) — Combine a good quality hog with good quality feed and you may net a champion swine, at least in the mind of Richard Kerper, Jr., who won grand champion hog last week at the Reading Fair.

Reserve champion hog went to Corey Eschbach, 8, son of George and Kathy Stump, Shoemakersville. The hog was a 220-pound Hampshire/Duroc gilt.

Richard, 17, son of Richard and Kay Kerper, Fleetwood, said it was those quality combinations that helped net him the honors.

The hog was purchased from Oscar Manbeck, Bethel, according to Richard. Richard won with a 235-pound purebred Duroc gilt that also garnered him championship recently at the Oley Fair.

Reserve champion went to Corey Eschbach, 8, son of George and Kathy Stump, Shoemakersville. The hog was a 220-pound Hampshire/Duroc gilt. Corey, who picked up reserve also at Oley, is showing in his first year. He attends Andrew Maier Elementary School.

Champion showman honors were awarded to Brian Eschbach and reserve to Richard Kerper. Christine Hunter won champion fitter and reserve went to Ben Weist.

Judge for the show was Dennis Grumbine, Myerstown. Following is a list of show placings.

QA Programs Benefit Many

UNIVERSITY (Centre Co.) — According to Penn State Professor of Animal Science Lowell L. Wilson, Quality Assurance (QA) Programs formulated and carried out by interdisciplinary teams for dairy and livestock commodities directly benefit producers, marketeers, and consumers, and enhance the well-being of farm animals.

At a recent presentation at the annual convention of the American Veal Association in Grand Rapids, Michigan, Wilson discussed Beef, Veal, and Milk/Dairy-Beef Quality Assurance Education Programs initiated in 1986, 1988, and 1991, respectively. Although he emphasized the veal program, he noted parallels in all QA programs, regardless of species or commodity.

"Following QA program guidelines brings economic benefits to producers and processors," Wilson said. "But perhaps more importantly, these programs further enhance the quality of animal-derived products for consumers, boosting consumer confidence in farm animal industries. They also enhance animal well-being, a side benefit in each step in the QA programs.

"When producers become involved in formal QA programs they become more keenly aware that farmers who use animals are really food producers. And producers must continually check their production methods to make sure that their products are wholesome, high-quality, and will further bolster consumer confidence in that product."

QA programs have a true interdisciplinary structure with teams of producers, nutritionists, veterinarians, animal care specialists, meat scientists, and engineers.

WHY WE'RE FIRST WITH A THREE-YEAR GEARBOX LIMITED WARRANTY FOR FLEX WING CUTTERS

It's true. Bush Hog is the first manufacturer to offer a three-year limited warranty on flex wing rotary cutter gearboxes.

Our new gearbox limited warranty is 300 percent of the old warranty or three times what the old warranty was. And it's backed up by hundreds of thousands of hours of successful experience on thousands of Bush Hog flex wing cutters maintaining set aside and pasture acreage, roadways, waterways and shredding stalks. It's also supported by fast, accurate parts service that insures that the quality of our service matches the quality of our products.

What's more, our new limited warranty comes with a 24-hour service promise. If we don't ship a part for a warranted flex wing cutter gearbox to the Bush Hog dealer within 24 hours of receiving the order at our headquarters or one of our distribution centers, we'll pay the overnight air freight.

HERE'S HOW THE THREE-YEAR GEARBOX LIMITED WARRANTY WORKS

You're covered from the day you buy your new 2615, 3615 or 2620 rotary cutter from a Bush Hog dealer. Just send in your warranty card or ask your dealer to do it for you. We'll handle everything else. And the new limited warranty is retroactive to cover all Bush Hog flex wing cutters sold retail since January 1, 1992.

Gearboxes under the new warranty will be replaced or repaired free of charge to the owner for components and labor if they fail due to normal wear and tear. This warranty applies to all farm and commercial operators. Abuse and failure to operate properly such as failure to maintain the proper lubricant level are not covered.

If you have a problem, simply report it to your Bush Hog dealer. We'll take it from there. But frankly, we don't think you'll have one. Thousands of Bush Hog flex wing rotary cutters are already in the field and their record is nothing short of phenomenal. The Bush Hog designed gearboxes hold up in applications from one coast to the other. We are confident when we warrant them. You can be confident when you buy them. Look for the Bush Hog brand on the gearbox to be sure you are buying genuine Bush Hog products.

WHAT'S BEHIND THE LIMITED WARRANTY

Only Bush Hog designed gearboxes are used on Bush Hog rotary cutters and only Bush Hog designed gearboxes carry the Bush Hog brand name.

The Bush Hog designs are the results of more than 41 years of experience in the rotary cutter business. Bush Hog manufacturing is performed by more than 850 trained employees, many of them farmers and operators themselves. They know what rotary cutters must do and how to build them so they will do it year after year.

Bush Hog's service parts people are also dedicated. Customers waiting with a down machine because parts aren't available is unacceptable to them. That's why last year they achieved a record of 96% of all service parts shipped within 24 hours of the order being received and are striving to do even better.

BUILDING THE LEGEND

Building the Legend isn't just a slogan at Bush Hog. It's how we live. Our new three-year flex wing cutter gearbox warranty is just one example of how every Bush Hog employee is working to build the legend. Our product comparison sheets are another. Ask your dealer to help you compare Bush Hog's limited warranty and features with the competition. We think you'll choose to become part of the legend.

Swine Management News

THE FORMS OF FEED

Have you ever wondered why feed ingredients are processed the way they are? Why do we grind feed or make it into pellets? Should other processing technologies be considered?

The answer to these questions are derived from years of research at land-grant institutions and industry research farms throughout the country. Summations of this work can be found in the Pork Industry Handbook fact sheet #71, "Physical Forms of Feed-Feed Processing for Swine."

So why do we grind feed? Why not just feed the grains whole? Actually, the answer to this question is common sense. First, a ground product allows for a more uniform mix than coarse grains and fine supplements provide.

But there are other benefits to grinding feed. Growth rate of hogs fed ground feed can be expected to increase by 3 to 5 percent, even when there is no change in feed intake. The feed conversion rate is also improved by 3 to 5 percent. However, too fine a grind less than a ¼ to ⅜ inch screen) could cause the feed to be less palatable. Very fine feedstuffs have a floury texture.

Another feed-processing technique that profits pig performance is pelleting feed. With corn and grain sorghum, pelleting results in a 3 to 6 percent improved growth rate, 1 to 3 percent reduced feed intake, and a 5 to 8 percent improved feed efficiency. Other grains, such as barley, oats, wheat and bran, show even better improvement when pelleted.

Some producers have used other forms of processing, including roasting, steam flaking, micronizing, or extruding their grains or soybeans. Slight improvements can be realized in feed conversions when corn grain is roasted; however, these improvements are generally not cost-effective.

Roasting soybeans can improve feed efficiency 4 to 6 percent and decrease feed intake. The reason for this is that the heating process destroys the trypsin inhibitors and urease enzymes and inactivates the toxic hemagglutinin while increasing nutrient availability in the soybeans. Care has to be taken to cook the soybeans to the proper temperature and for the proper amount of time. When roasting soybeans, heat for 3 to 5 minutes at an exit temperature of 240-260 degrees Fahrenheit. If extruding soybeans, optimal exit temperature should be 280 degrees.

Another grain-processing method to be considered by hog producers is feeding rations as a paste. This improves growth rate 10 to 15 percent, with a similar increase in feed intake but no difference in feed efficiency. When paste feeding, mix feed with water at a 1.2 to 1.5 to 1 ratio. Generally, the advantage here is with growing-finishing hogs, not weanlings.

The final option is liquid feeding. When liquid feeding, the amount of water added to feed is increased with 2.1 parts water to every 1 part feed. Advantages are improved growth rates and feed conversions along with increased feed consumption. Advantages are apparent in limit-feeding systems and not with full feeding.

It is apparent that the type of processing you use on your farm can have a positive effect on the performance of your hogs. Take care in evaluating the available options to determine if they are feasible and cost-effective for your operation.

To evaluate alternative feed-processing options, consider the cost of implementing them. How expensive will it be to purchase a roaster, pelleting, or liquid-feeding system? Will you need to make alterations in your feeding stations to feed the different forms? Are there extra costs associated with using the new system, such as energy costs and labor costs?

Finally, evaluate if the added costs and labor to an alternative feed-processing system will be more than offset by the improvement in pig performance. Ultimately, the decision to change feeding systems rests on the individual pork producer. Knowing the potential advantages, however, will make the decision easier.

Take a look at the Pork Industry Handbook sheet #71 for additional ideas on feed processing for swine.

PREVENT PIGLET CRUSHING

BSM Model 90 Farrowing Crate

GALVANIZED!

Constructed from heavy gauge materials this crate is designed to reduce crushing, with sow comfort in mind. The bowed bottom bars makes for a comfortable 33" crate width when the sow lays down, yet the adjustable anti-crush bars eliminates the sow from carelessly dropping in the piglets.
This movement restriction does not hamper the sow as she lays down, or wants to stand up, as the bars slide up and out of her way.

SUNY Makes Scholarships Available

ALFRED, N.Y. — Good news for FFA leaders — $1,000 scholarships are now available to attend State University of New York (SUNY) College of Technology.

That's the word from Deborah Goodrich, admissions director at Alfred State. she said the college will provide $1,000 per year residency scholarships for students who qualify.

• Students making the grad for acceptance into a regular associate degree program at Alfred State.

• FFA leaders who can verify service as an FFA chapter president, district officer, or state officer.

• Those agreeing to reside on campus and who remain in good academic standing.

Verification of FFA leadership may be made by a high school official such as a vocational agriculture teacher or principal and should be submitted directly to the Admissions Office at Alfred State at the time of application, said Goodrich.

For more information, contact the Admissions Office, Alfred State College, Alfred, NY 14802, (607) 587-4215.

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING
A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

MEAT MATTERS MOST

THE ART OF CATTLE FEEDING
1. Utilizing the highest quality feeds available.
2. Maintaining high feed intake with a palatable ration
3. Achieving maximum production at the least cost.

Lacking in any of these areas? Let Miracle Feeds Inc. show you how a "Wet Brewers Grain Feeding Program" can increase ration palatability and achieve top production while cutting protein costs.

IXL
Anti-friction Metal Conditioner

Efficiency is our Newest Resource

Science brings a new dimension to Anti-Friction
A metal conditioner product ahead of its time, IXL will give your equipment priceless protection. IXL gives protection far superior to just oil or lubricants. IXL is specifically designed to be used in: (NEW) and (USED) gasoline & diesel engines, compressors, automatic & manual transmissions, hydraulics, gear boxes, bearings of all types, turbos, pumps, and much more. IXL is a metal conditioner which treats all ferrous metals 3 to 5 microns deep, thereby making the metal surfaces harder, denser and smoother. These results are minimum metal wear, giving maximum engine and machine life. IXL reduces heat, friction, and wear, up to 75% without changing tolerances, reducing friction will release energy previously expended to overcome ordinary mechanical resistance. This energy is now available as a positive force, working to increase power, performance and fuel savings. IXL, also helps maintain and recondition seals and gaskets, by keeping these items pliable, firm, and flexible. It will help prevent leaks, IXL is not a lubricant fortifier, such as PTFE, Moly, or graphite. IXL is biodegradable, NON-TOXIC and environmentally safe. IXL is one of the highest quality products on the market today.

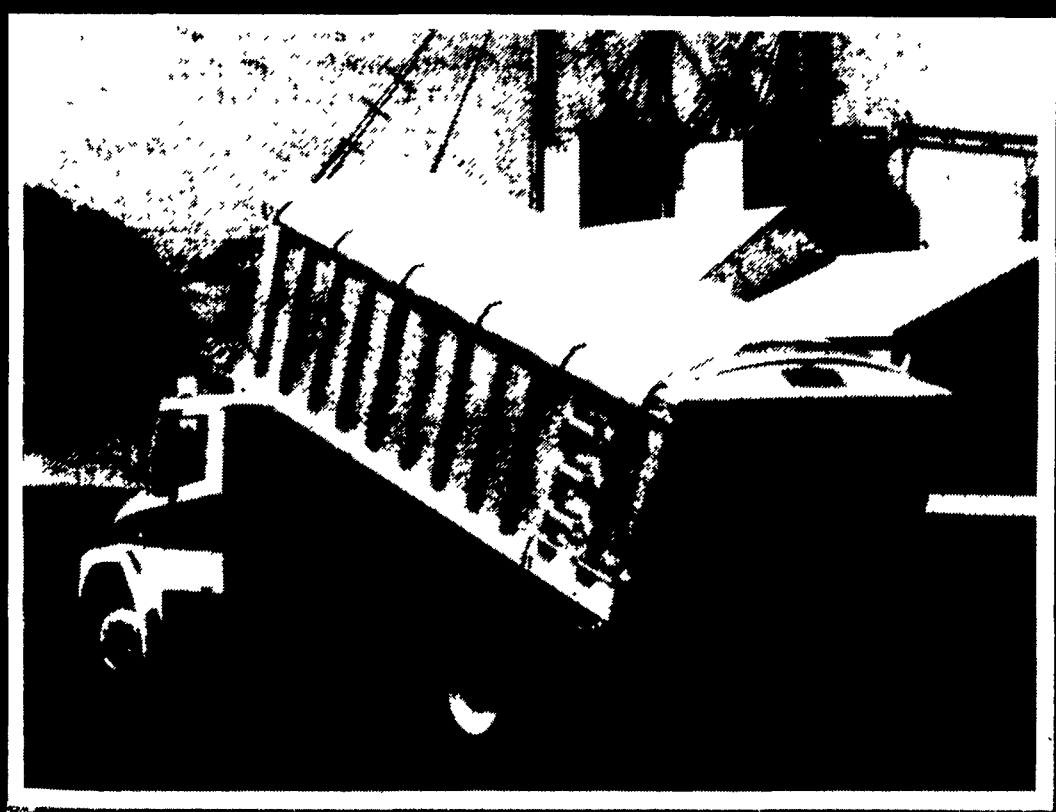
In grain bodies, aluminum makes $ense.



Eby Aluminum Grain Bodies pay off in dependable long-term service. Their all-aluminum construction means:

- Greater payload efficiency
- Maintenance free service
- Substantially higher resale value.

FREE FITTED TARP THRU 11-1-92

Eby aluminum grain bodies are available in 24' and 28' standard height, optional heights include 54", 60" and 72". A long list of standard features such as tie rail, built-in steps, aerodynamic uprights and Harsh hoist is complemented optional, including tailgates, Wampeton tarps and chute. When you select your next grain body, consider the value that aluminum offers. It's a worry-free investment in your future.

35 Acre Gentlemans Farm
in a beautiful pastoral setting ¼ mile from the public road. If seclusion is what you are looking for? This is it! The restored 1800's sandstone farmhouse has been repointed with new windows in the past year. Sit on the porch and overlook the pond, fields, and trees without another home in sight. Everyone will love, the huge original stone fireplace with bake oven in the family room converted from the old summer kitchen. Plenty of room for horses in the 85' bank barn. Also features a 3 bedroom tenant house and a 3 car garage shop. This property is expertly maintained and features an unmatchable setting. This farm is available for $345,000 in Northern Lancaster County.

Compost Demo Tuesday

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Municipal officials and farmers are invited to a municipal compost demonstration on October 6 at the Bob Beishline farm near Buckhorn, Columbia County.

Composting of horse manure and municipal yard waste will be demonstrated. The program will begin at 10 a.m. and will be repeated throughout the day until 2:30 p.m.

According to Guy Temple, extension community development agent, approximately 50 percent of the solid waste stream from most communities consists of materials that are readily compostible. Yard waste makes up about 20 percent of that amount, and is an excellent material for a compost operation.

Temple will discuss the potential for communities to compost a portion of their waste. Bob Beishline, farm owner, will demonstrate the amounts of mixtures used, the mixing method, and other details relating to the development of a useable compost.

The Beishline farm is located northwest of Buckhorn near Bloomsburg.

Additional "open farm" composting demonstrations are scheduled for the Richard Yule farm, Millville, Columbia County on October 23 and the Preston Boop farm, near Mazeppa, Union County on January 6, 1993.

For additional information, contact the Union County Penn State Cooperative Extension office, 103 S. Second Street, Lewisburg, PA 17837-1996, (717) 524-8721.

Milking Shorthorn Winners Named At All American

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — New England exhibitors fared quite well in the Eastern National Milking Shorthorn Show yesterday at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. The show was one of six national breed shows held in conjunction with this year's Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show.

Gregory and Marcia Clark of Cornish Flats, New Hampshire, exhibited the grand champion of the show, "Brookview Demand Juliet-EXP." The cow also won her class for senior two-year-olds, had the best udder and was named the senior champion of the show.

The reserve champion female was "Spring Meadows Greetings," a four-year-old cow exhibited by Polly Vllom of Centerburg, Ohio. Vllom also exhibited the junior champion female, "Spring Meadows Arthur's Gunivere," a junior yearling heifer.

The reserve junior champion, "Cold Springs Plum Isabo," was exhibited by Bill Bartlett.

Bartlett, of Salisbury, Massachusetts, was named the premier breeder and premier exhibitor of the Milking Shorthorn Show. Throughout the event, he captured blue ribbons for senior heifer calf, reserve junior champion female, best three females, get-of-sire, best dairy herd and five-year-old cow.

The All-American Dairy Show is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association in conjunction with the Department of Agriculture and Farm Products Show Commission. Competition continues through Thursday afternoon.

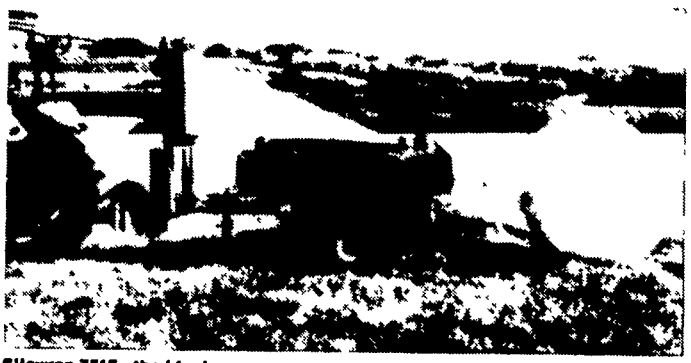
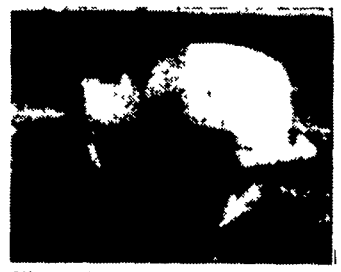
In 5 years Kverneland has brought a new dimension into forage production!



Silawrap 7515 - the ideal one-man machine for custom wrapping. Computer controlled from cab, 30' Kverneland pre-stretcher, Kverneland Applicutter, and hydr. tail damper for gentle bale discharge.



Silawrap 7558 - stationary (or 3-point) model fully computerized, infra-red operation from loading tractor. One-man operation.

Simple solutions are very often the best - and least expensive! Therefore, it is not a surprise that Kverneland in 5 years has achieved the World leadership with the Silawrap System.

Because the Silawrap System offers:
- Minimal investments in fixed constructions
- Forage production far less depending on weather
- High feed value
- Harvesting and storing with minimum loss
- One-man operated silage production
- Great flexibility in harvest and storage
- Highly reliable technology in method and machines
- The experience behind more than 10,000 Silawraps

The dominating position of Silawrap in more than 20 leading agricultural nations in the world clearly confirms the Kverneland philosophy - "always to be a trouble-shooter for demanding farmers".

Northwestern Hereford Show Held

GREENVILLE (Mercer Co.) — The Northwestern Junior PA. Polled Hereford Association held the thirteenth annual show at the Stoneboro Fair with Eric Ligo of Greenville, serving as the judge. Amy Dalton of Cochranton, the 1992 Northwestern PA Polled Hereford Association Queen passed out the ribbons and trophies to the winning participants of the show.

The Stoneboro Fair had recently erected a new facility for the livesotck. Due to the inclement weather of the day the NWPPHA was very grateful for the new facility.

Grand Champion feamle, MAP Miss Flower CF1, was shown by Matt Cross of Kennerdell. Reserve Grand Champion Female, Mohican Suzie M9A, was shown by Jarrett Findlay of Franklin, Jarrett earned Junior Champion Showman award also.

Grand Champion Bull, CWF Crosswinds, was shown by Ben Cross of Kennerdell. Ben also had champion cow/calf and the bred and owned champion. Reserve grand champion bull, HAF Banners Prophet, was shown by Luke Vogal, of Evans City.

Senior champion showman award was earned by Michael Gardner of Ellwood City, while Cahd Findlay of Franklin, was the champion intermediate showman. Michael Gardner also had reserve junior champion femae and reserve calf champion.

Cody Filges of butler, was awarded a trophy for "First Time Showing of Excellence". Cody also showed the calf champion, CL Katie.

Chad Findlay, at the halter, was the intermediate champion showman. Sharing honors are Eric Ligo, judge, and Amy Dalton, NWPPHA queen.

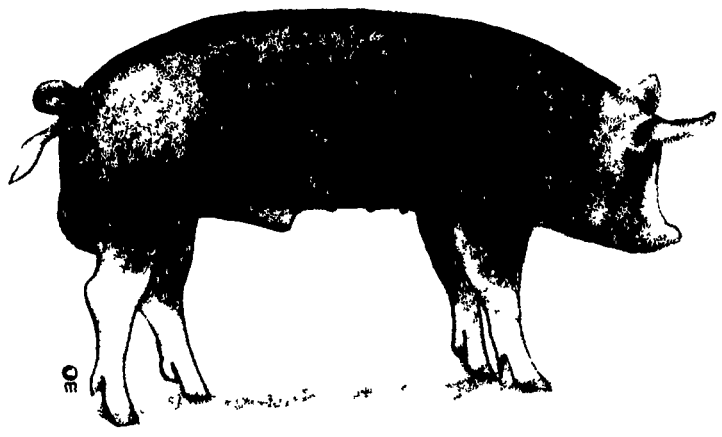
Quality Forage Theme Of Conference



TUNKHANNOCK (Wyoming Co.) — The 32nd annual Forage Conference, sponsored by the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council and Penn State University, will be held Tuesday, November 24 at the Shawdowbrook Inn.

The conference will explore the theme of "Quality Forage: Putting the Pieces Together" as it relates to differnt harvesting methods, including hay, silage, and pasture. The one-day conference will present a range of speakers from Pennsylvania and New York that represent both university specialists and forage producers.

A producer panel will discuss how they obtain quality forage through hay making, silage making, and grazing activities. In addition, those attending the conference will have an opportunity during registration to judge bales of hay and place them according to their quality. The placing will be compared with the results and placing based on NIRS analysis of the same bales. Representatives from businesses in Pennsylvania that have forage related concerns will also be on hand to discuss producer concerns and answer questions.

The conference will begin with registration at 9 a.m. at the Shadowbrook Inn. The Shadowbrook is located on Route 6 east of Tunkhannock. There is a $15 registration fee, which covers the program and lunch. The fee can be paid at the conference, but participants should make reservatiuons before Novemember 13 by writing to Forage Conference, c/o Richard Hann, Milton Hershey Farms, P.O. Box 830, Hershey, PA 17033.

Those attending the Forage Conference will have an opportunity to judge bales of hay and rank them according to hay quality. The results from everyone attending the conference will be tabulated and compared with the results based on NIRS (near infrared reflectance spectroscopy) analysis of the same bales. The similarities and differences of the both the sensory and NIRS quality predictions will be discussed during the conference. In addition, Dr. Jerry Cherney, forage specialist at Cornell University, will present a look at forage quality and why animal producers should be concerned with what they feed their livestock.

The hay judging will be a part of a day-long conference which will explore the theme of "Quality Forage: Putting the Pieces Together" as it relates to different harvesting methods including hay, silage, and pasture. The one-day conference will present a range of speakers from Pennsylvania and New York that represent both university specialists and forage producers.

Deere Adds Model To Drill Line

MOLINE, Ill. — To meet the needs of farmers who want the productivity of a wider seeding width and the speed and convenience of a narrow transport width, John Deere has added a 35-foot model to its line of 455 Series folding grain drills. The new model joins the 25-foot and 30-foot models introduced last year.

The 35-foot model consists of a center 10-foot box and two 12-½ -foot wing boxes. Dual wing wheels with double-rib tires support the wing boxes. The operator can fold the new model to a transport width of 15 feet 2 inches without leaving the tractor seat. Clearance under the openers is 21 inches.

All 455 Series folding drills feature in-line box configurations that make loading seed and fertilizer fast and easy. Each model provides a minimum of 15 degrees of wing flexibility for following ground contours and terraces.

An adjustable down-pressure system uses the tractor's SCV and hydraulics to apply constant force on the offset, double-disk openers. This provides consistent opener penetration as the openers flex up or down across varying terrain. A control knob and pressure gauge permit the operator to adjust down-pressure from 500-1,500 psi to match a range of soil conditions.

The system is fully compatible with closed-center tractor hydraulics. When connected to open-center hydraulics, the operator can set down-pressure with the control knob and gauge. The open-center design does not permit the system to automatically adjust to maintain desired down-pressure when openers flex across uneven terrain.

Each opener also has an adjustable spring for fine-tuning down-pressure, such as for openers that run in wheel tracks. The design permits up to 15 inches of opener flexibility to help ensure consistent down-pressure. The drills are available with 6-, 7-1/2-, and 10-inch opener spacing.

Depth-gauging press wheels provide consistent depth control and seed-to-soil contact. Each press wheel has a convenient handle for quickly adjusting opener depth from 0 - 3-1/2 inches in 12 incremental settings -- all without tools. Optional press wheels are available in four size/configuration combinations to match operator preference and a wide range of soil types, residue levels, and moisture conditions. A 2 x 13 press wheel is standard.

A 2.8 bushel/foot plain grain box is standard on 455-Series drills. An optional 3.4-bushel/foot combination grain/fertilizer box is available. The combination box features a moveable partition to accommodate 100 percent, 60 percent, or 40 percent grain.

tomorrow's leaders in agriculture

4-H reaches young people across the nation, offering them an opportunity to contribute to their community as they develop independence, awareness and responsibility. With subjects like livestock, plants and soil, energy, ecology and jobs and careers, boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 19 partake in activities and projects aimed at promoting creativity and personal growth. Their 4-H experience provides a foundation of strong ideals to live by as they become our next generation of adults. It's an important organization... one that we heartily support and proudly salute.

Thanks, 4-H

HOUSING AND POULTRY HEALTH

H. S. Siegel
Professor of Poultry Science

Poultry populations are constantly exposed to low levels of disease organisms of moderate virulence (endemic infections) and to occasional bursts of acute virulence. Acute infections are generally controlled by vaccination and drugs.

Dr. P. M. Biggs of Great Britain attributes recent increases in the endemic type of infections to intensive housing practices because there are climatic and behavioral changes that are imposed to which the birds are not genetically adapted.

Since housing constitutes the environment where commercial poultry spends its life, what are the factors in this environment that can alter disease susceptibility?

In the following article, one of these factors will be discussed.

Density Of Disease Organisms

As concentrations of disease organisms increase in the environment, the probability of infection increases. Morbidity and mortality are proportional, for example, to the number of coccidial oocysts ingested, to the number of roundworm eggs ingested, or to the number of virus particles that fall on respiratory membranes, etc.

Organism concentration is influenced by the following environmental factors: bird density, ventilation, contact with feces, and human and other animal transmittal.

First and foremost is bird density. Higher population densities increase the potential for shedding infectious organisms. In the past, this buildup of organisms was controlled by periodic depopulation; however, in the large layer complexes, with more than one age bird on the same premises, this problem becomes more complex.

In addition to increased potential for shedding microorganisms, higher density populations increase the strain on ventilation systems to maintain optimum temperature and humidity within the house. Finally, excessive crowding in cages or in floor pens has been shown to increase stress levels, which in turn may decrease disease resistance by depressing immunological function.

A second factor that affects organism concentration is ventilation. Increasing the air exchange in a building dilutes the number of airborne organisms, particulates, and levels of toxic gases, and there is better control of temperature and humidity.

Canadian Agricultural Engineer J. B. McQuitty found a strong relationship between poor air quality and increases in respiratory diseases.

Particulates (dust from feathers, skin dander, litter, and feed) are carriers of viruses, bacteria, and mold. Dr. McQuitty has shown that particles greater than 10 micrometers settle out rapidly and usually do not enter the bird's breathing passages. Particles 5-10 micrometers in size are trapped in the upper part of the respiratory tract, but particles less than 5 micrometers in size reach the lungs and airsacs and can cause damage to these organs. These particles can carry microorganisms and toxic gases.

Particle load is generally greater in litter floor houses than in cage units. Traditionally, when engineers or building contractors calculate minimum ventilation rates needed for buildings, these rates are based on moisture and temperature considerations and seldom on particulate load.

Because ventilation influences temperature and humidity in the house, it has a direct effect on diseases. Extremely dry conditions tend to increase particulates, but high moisture levels increase litter wetness and provide ideal conditions for survival and multiplication of bacteria, protozoans, and parasites. Ammonia and other toxic gases develop in damp litter.

There are differential effects of temperature and moisture on the shedding of disease organisms by the host, on the survival of the organism in the environment, and on the receptivity of the recipient bird. For example, dry, dusty conditions may increase coughing and sneezing by birds with respiratory diseases, but survival of the viruses outside the body is normally reduced in these conditions. Very dry conditions may also increase the susceptibility of recipient birds because of the drying out of the mucus membranes that line the respiratory tract.

Temperature has a variable impact on the survival time of microorganisms in litter. Thus sporulation rate of the coccidial species e. tenella is greatest at about 82 degrees F., while survival time of the Mareks disease virus is greatest at about 40 degrees F.

Increasing ventilation rate dilutes levels of toxic gases. Ammonia is the most common toxic gas in poultry houses. Levels increase in poorly ventilated houses as litter moisture increases, bacterial degradation of nitrogenous waste accelerates, and air exchange is inadequate to remove the excess. Continuous exposure to 20 ppm results in damage to the inner surfaces of the respiratory tract and increases the potential of infection by respiratory viruses, such as Newcastle disease virus. Because of its high water solubility, ammonia damage is usually found in the upper part of the respiratory tract.

Hydrogen sulfide gas, while rarely found in poultry structures (it is occasionally encountered in swine houses), could be a problem where oxygen cannot penetrate, such as in deep manure pits or lagoons. Because of its relatively low solubility, hydrogen sulfide damage occurs deep in the respiratory tract. Carbon monoxide poisoning is almost always associated with faulty combustion apparatus, such as improperly functioning heating equipment.

Contact with feces. Coprophagy or eating of feces increases potential cross contamination between birds. Some diseases are only propagated in this way. However, keep in mind that low levels of intake may also stimulate immunological response and thereby increase natural immunity.

Human and other animal vectors. Visitors, work crews and neighbors can transfer organisms from one flock to another on clothing, footwear and equipment. Some avian respiratory viruses have even been isolated from human sputum.

Rodents and pets contaminate feed and litter with enteric organisms, notably Salmonellae, and will perpetrate the disease on the farm. Dr. Opitz of Maine and Dr. Kradel of Penn State define mice as one of the best salmonella enteritidis amplifiers in the poultry industry. Wild birds are capable of carrying many diseases of poultry. For example, wild waterfowl were a significant reservoir for Avian Influenza during the 1983-1984 outbreak in Pennsylvania. Ornamental pet birds were found to be a source of Viscerotropic Valogenic Newcastle Disease (VVND) in the U.S. and Europe. Insects are mechanical carriers or intermediate hosts for several diseases.

In summary, the environmental factors within poultry houses that influence the number of disease organisms that the bird encounters are bird density, ventilation rate, temperature, humidity, contact with feces and human and animal carriers. An effective biosecurity program is essential.

In later articles we'll discuss some factors within the bird itself hat influence disease usceptibility.

Soil Tilth Topics On Tap

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — British ships had not yet sailed around the world when Fitzherbert, an English agriculturalist, made observations about soil compaction and its adverse effects on crop yields at the site of what later became Britain's famed Rothamsted experimental station.

Now, more than 450 years later, soil compaction has suddenly become a timely topic at major farmer education meetings in the United States.

Fitzherbert observed soil compaction caused by humans and horses. Modern soil compaction problems, of course, are compounded by the weight of heavy machinery.

The latest research findings on soil compaction, deep tillage, and a tilth index system for measuring soil conditions will highlight the morning session at this year's Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference on December 17. The 19th annual event will be held at the Embers Inn and Convention Center near Carlisle, Pa.

Thomas S. Colvin, an agricultural engineer for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service, will be the lead-off speaker. Colvin also will be a panel member during a breakout session on deep tillage. He is associated with the National Soil Tilth Laboratory based at Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa.

Colvin's proposed soil tilth index system has been tested throughout the U.S. corn belt and in Russia. Tests also are under way in parts of Asia.

As in past years, the Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service at land-grant universities in Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia. Assistance is provided by interested agribusiness representatives.

Plans are being made to accommodate more than 30 commercial and educational exhibits. Nearly 500 crop farmers and agribusiness representatives are expected to attend. Activities will run from 8 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.

Following a midmorning break, conference participants will have their choice of attending one of three concurrent breakout sessions related to the conference theme, "Back to the Basics." Topics and speakers are as follows:

- Deep Tillage — "When Is it Needed and Why It Might Be used" — Thomas S. Colvin, National Soil Tilth Lab, Ames, Iowa.

"Deep Tillage Equipment" — Lynn D. Hoffman, Agronomy Research Center, Penn State University.

- Soil Fertility — "Considerations for Conservation Tillage" — Dr. Douglas B. Beegle, extension agronomist, Penn State.
- Commercial Update — Conference exhibitors will have opportunity to report on "What's New From Industry!", a show-and-tell session on products, services, and technological advances.

The afternoon program will open with a repeat of the morning breakout sessions, giving individuals an opportunity to hear speakers in two of the three topic areas.

A farmer panel discussion will close out the day's program, with longtime conservation tillage operators telling how they manage soils for optimum production potential.

Tickets for the noon lunch are available at $6 each from county offices of the cooperative extension service throughout the Mid-Atlantic area. They must be purchased no later than December 7.

Annual Conference Set In Tunkhannock

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Farmers can get information about hay, haylage, grazing and other forage topics at the Annual Forage Conference, Tuesday, November 24, at the Shadowbrook Inn and Resort in Tunkhannock. The conference is sponsored by Penn State and the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council.

"The conference provides an opportunity for forage producers in Pennsylvania and throughout the Northeast to hear the latest in forage production," says Dr. Marvin Hall, assistant professor of agronomy in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and member of the conference corrdinating committee.

The theme of this year's conference is "Quality Forage; Putting the Pieces Together." The event will feature hay bale judging and presentations on harvesting forage as hay, haylage and grazing material. Also covered will be manure management and forage species for all seasons.

"The conference has an excellent lineup of speakers discussing the importance of quality forage," says Hall. Speakers will inlcude agronomy specialists from Penn State and Cornell, a research agronomist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture and a representative from the USDA Soil Conservation Service. Thomas Calvert, president of the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council, will head the lunchtime meeting and present awards.

In addition, three Pennsylvania forage producers will talk about their experiences with haylage harvesting, hay production and intensive rotational grazing and its effects on harvesting forage. A question and answer period will follow their presentations.

Participants must register by November 13. The $15 fee can be paid in advance or at the door. To register, contact Richard Hann, Milton Hershey Farms, P.O. Box 830, Hershey, PA 17033. Motel reservations can be made at the Shawdowbrook Inn by calling (717)836-2151. The Shawdowbrook Inn and Resort is located on Route 6, 15 miles west of exit 58 off Interstate 81 and the Clarks Summit exit off the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Holstein Foundation Sets 1992 Goal

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Trustees of the Holstein Foundation announced a goal of $200,000 for the year at the recent national Holstein convention in Utah.

In October, letters will be sent to some 30,000 Holstein families to appeal for Foundation support, according to Gwyne Tingley, Foundation development director.

Funds will go to sponsor a national youth leadership conference, research, youth and educational projects, Tingley said.

The Foundation was established in 1989 with an endowment from the Holstein Association. While the Association appoints the trustees, it prefers the Foundation to act independently with its nine trustees.

In 1991, the Foundation awarded research grants to universities in Tennessee, Illinois, Ohio, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Virginia.

The Wisconsin Dairy Breeding Council and the American Dairy Science Association were also grant recipients.

A wide range of studies on dairy genetic issues—including genetic markers—is under review.

The October mail appeal gives dairy farmers a direct influence over the future of the industry.

"Private funds can assure the likelihood of technological advancements, the steady flow of young dairy leaders and genetic progress of the breed," Tingley said.

Those interested may call for a 1991 Annual Report of the Holstein Foundation at 1-800-952-5200.

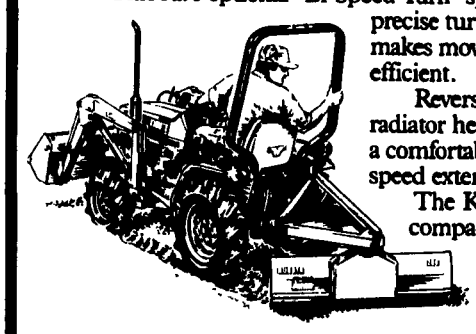
SCRAPE, DIG, PULL, LOAD, MOW AND MORE

Estate owners, landscapers and farmers will appreciate the Kubota B-50 Series' wide choice of handy implements.

These include mid and rear mount mowers, front loaders, boxscrapers, backhoes, posthole diggers, snowblowers, even rotary tillers.

Kubota's remarkable B-50 Series compact tractors come with mid and 2-speed rear PTO. Optional Hydrostatic transmission. From 17-24 HP.

Kubota's optional "Bi-Speed Turn" system allows smaller and precise turns in 4-Wheel Drive, which makes mowing, and even loading more efficient.



Reverse air flow cooling directs radiator heat away from the operator for a comfortable, quiet ride. Low piston speed extends engine life.

The Kubota B-50 Series. Versatile compact tractors.

NEW AT BINKLEY & HURST BROS. FROM SUNFLOWER:

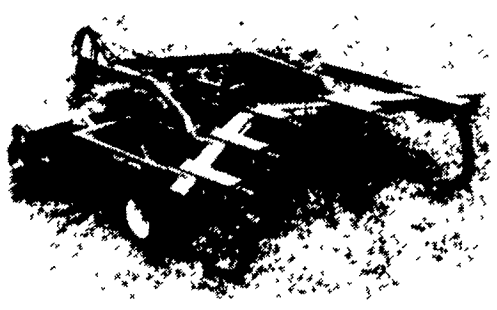
COULTER RIPPER



Sunflower's Coulter Ripper is for today's conservation minded farmer demanding deep tillage with minimal residue disturbance. These durable machines feature adjustable front mounted coulters on 7½" centers. The coulter blades have an added advantage of slicing hard ground to keep clod size to a minimum. The V-bar ripper design gives added trash clearance and pulls smoother than straight-bar rippers. These coulter rippers are built Sunflower tough and no ballast is added to the frame increasing the structural strength. Check out Sunflower's latest edition to its growing family of quality tillage equipment at a farm show or dealer near you.

Conservation Tillage Equipment Built SUNFLOWER Tough!

Adjustable Coulter Gangs: The 4010/4110 both feature adjustable coulter gangs that can be raised completely in clean ground. Ratchet Jack Adjustment is standard equipment. Optional Hydraulic Gang Adjustment makes on the go changes or raising the coulters completely out of the way an easy task from the tractor seat.

The new Case International 3900 flex-wing disk harrow is just what you need for today's high-powered farming. Expect outstanding performance and reliability with.

- Superior gang strength from a massive welded tubular uni-body gang frame. For years of trouble-free operation
- Unique self-leveling spring-loaded hitch that transfers weight between tractor and disk to maintain ground-hugging performance in uneven terrain.
- A new mechanical stop depth control that eliminates variances common with master/slave systems. Plus crank adjustment for easy fine-tuning of front-to-back leveling. Great for uniform incorporation of chemicals and residues.
- Earth Metal® blades for sharp penetration and easy pull that save you fuel. Plus extra durability that means fewer replacements

Check out the new 3900. Stop in today.

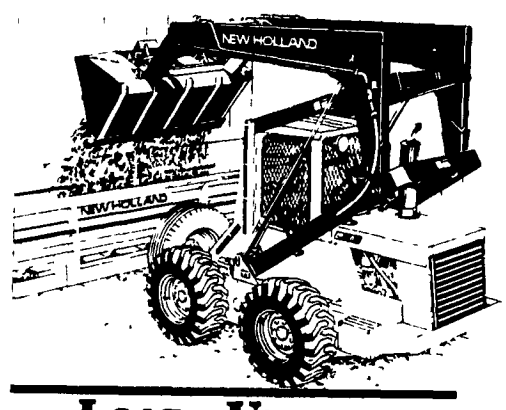
Total performance for big crop harvesting

You get total performance when you harvest your crops with a Model 900 forage harvester Total performance begins at the cutterhead The 12 knives of the 21-inch cutterhead give you uniformly cut, high-quality forage Other features on the "900" include

- Metalert II® electronic metal detector (optional)—protects cutterhead and your valuable animals
- Electromagnetic clutches—give instant response in controlling feedroll and attachment drives
- Easy-adjust shearbar—makes adjustment fast and precise

FORD NEW HOLLAND



LOAD...UNLOAD FASTER AND EASIER

When you re working the big loads you need the Super Boom advantage—extra reach
With more forward dump reach you can center load your largest spreader from one side so you get an even load The result faster loading fuller loads and easier unloading
With level bucket lift you load more and lift higher with less spillback And with a longer wheelbase there s more stability and safety
Find out how good a skid-steer loader can be

When Buying A NEW COMBINE

DON'T OVERLOOK THE CASE IH AXIAL FLOW ADVANTAGE

the single rotor

With the SINGLE AXIAL FLOW ROTOR you get:

1) INCREASED PRODUCTION by the ability to start combining earlier in the day, and to keep combining later into the night.
2) BETTER GRAIN QUALITY because the ROTOR'S threshing action is much gentler than a conventional combine's cylinder.
3) LESS MAINTENANCE because there is NO strawwalker system to repair.

DON'T OVERLOOK THE HOOBER SERVICE ADVANTAGE

HOOBER'S experienced service people

With HOOBER's experienced SERVICE PEOPLE you get:

1) Fulltime Combine mechanics who work on combines year round, not just when you have a problem.
2) PEOPLE WHO CARE about your problems and want to fix them fast. so that you can get back to the field.
3) RECONDITIONED COMPONENTS which are not for sale, but are strictly reserved for use by the SERVICE DEPARTMENT to insert in customers machines who have major component failures.

AN ALL-NEW BREED OF POWER

NEW 6000 SERIES TRACTORS... NEW 600 SERIES LOADERS... GREAT NEWS

Your hydraulic power needs vary from one loader job to the next. So we built a new hydraulic system for new 6000 Series Tractors that varies pressure and flow to match your demand. If you need a big flow of oil, you'll get it... the 16 gpm main pump provides maximum pressure up to 2900 psi. You get exactly the response you need, fed to the fastest cycling, most productive new loaders we've ever built. Come see us for more details.

Torq-Gard Supreme Plus-50 oil's performance and protection are so advanced, you actually get 50 extra hours between oil changes when it's used in John Deere engines with John Deere filters.* If your tractor normally needs an oil change every 100 hours, you change oil three times over 300 hours. With Torq-Gard Supreme Plus-50 oil, you only need to change oil twice.
*Exceeds API service classification CE
See us for special prices on this premium oil with an exclusive formula specifically developed to provide the best protection for John Deere engines.

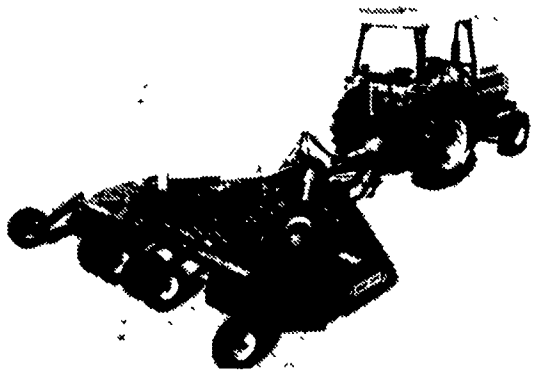
NOT ALL FIELDS ARE PERFECTLY FLAT.



That's why the Bush Hog® model 2615 15-foot cutter's wings are designed to float along contours as severe as 90 degrees up or 22 degrees down while shredding stalks, clipping pastures or cutting along rights-of-way, drainage ditches, terraces and fence rows. As it does so, an automatic height adjustment keeps the wings cutting at the same height as the center section. A framing system featuring closed box members allows us to make the 2615 pounds lighter without sacrificing any of the strength you've come to expect from a Bush Hog. And, less weight not only means less wear and tear on your tractor but it has also allowed us to cut the price

Why pay more to get less – make Bush Hog's success your success

BARN CLEANERS

All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners

Extra thick steel at all wear points

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only
You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain on the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer

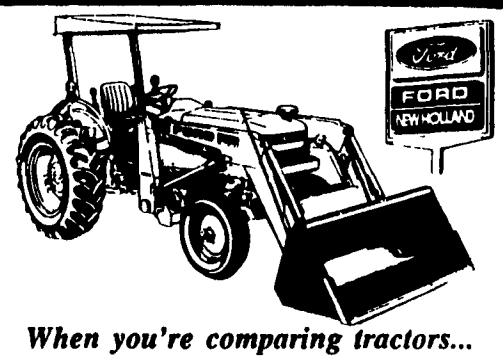
LANDSCAPING



When you're comparing tractors...

FORD OFFERS THE LANDSCAPER MORE

Top link sensing on Ford 32- to 55-PTO-hp tractors offers the ultimate in 3-point control for implement or blade work. Two-lever control allows precise adjustment for proper depth and pull requirements.

Check out these other performance features:

- Deluxe closed-center hydraulics let you adjust the flow rate for each remote
- Hydraulic and draft/position controls are within easy, natural reach to the right
- Optional 8x8 synchronized transmission allows easy shifting on-the-go
- Standard telescoping stabilizer and flexible link ends allow fast, easy hook up.

When it comes to landscaping, no other utility tractor compares to Ford. Let us demonstrate.

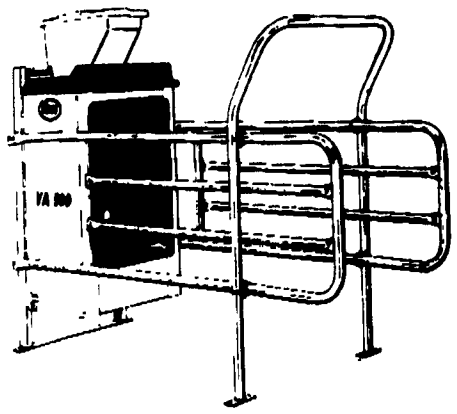
With this concentrate feeding system LESS MEANS MORE

Dairymen report a 7-8% increase in milk yield with 5% less concentrate input with the new VA 500.

Each cow's ration is fed automatically according to her individual lactation curve. Feeding for production means high producing cows get more. Every cow pays her way. The whole herd can be housed together and you don't need complicated computer support systems for operation.



Make your concentrate work harder.

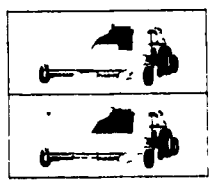
It pays to be square

For custom operators, Vicon's new Compact 800 high density baling system delivers baling speed and packing capacity - up to 20 to 24 tons of hay per hour - in a square package that's right for stacking, handling, transport and feeding.

Bales are 2'8" x 2'8" square, variable in length from 2'8" to 8'3". They stack like brick and mortar so hauling is safe and economical.



Maneuverable shape, variable sizes and layered composition make Compact 800 square bales the choice for handling and feeding in any operation.

The Square Answer.

Bringing technology down to earth.

If Your Silo Needs New Life...
Try Our Poly Silo Liners

-THE ADVANTAGE OF A POLY LINER-
- Spoilage is reduced around doors.
- Feed is exposed to less oxygen - better fermentation.
- Allows storage of high moisture grains or dry grains in a conventional silo.
- Delays repair or replacement of corroded silos.
- Prevents corrosive acids from contacting silo wall - extends silo life.
- Quick installation.
- Effectively seals silos from air and weather.

The Liners Are Manufactured To Fit Most Standard Diameter Silos.

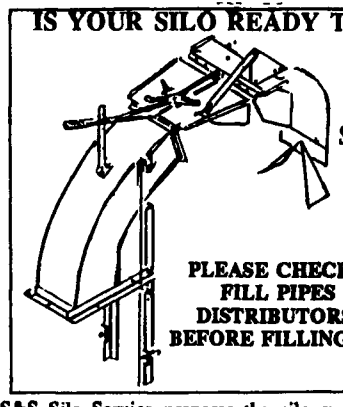
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete

STRONGER AND WILL OUT LAST PLASTER

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH CORN SILAGE?



PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

WILL SERVICE 3 TO 4 DAYS OR LESS ON MOST JOBS

'TIS THE SEASON!

Yes - The Harvest Season Is Here!
Store your good corn crop in a POURED CONCRETE SOLLENBERGER SILO.

Units available for "High-Moisture" shelled corn or "Ground Ear" corn. Bottom-Unloading or Top-Unloading. Consider the Many Advantages of Concrete! 6" thick concrete walls to keep feed cooler because concrete reflects the sun's rays, and has 25 times more insulating power than steel. The concrete silo has a much lower maintenance requirement because there are not thousands of bolts to rust and work loose and no seams to reseal. The poured concrete silo is heavily reinforced to give you a very strong structure.

Unload from the bottom with a simple auger for high-moisture shelled corn, (least expensive), Laidig 43 for shelled corn or cob corn, or Flying Dutchman for grains or Forages

SUCCESS AT HOODSTEAD

Located in Frederick County, Maryland, Hoodstead Farm is owned and operated by Scott and Judy Hood along with full-time help from their right-hand man, Greg Wiles. Their 75-cow herd consists of 51 registered Holsteins with a BAA of 105.2 and an RHA of 22,566M, 810F, 706P. The remaining 24 registered Brown Swiss have a classification average of 84.8 and an RHA of 18,279M, 707F, and 627P.

In January 1992, Scott changed his feeding program to Purina's Hi-Energy 35% Concentrate, dried corn, corn silage, and 5# hay. This change yielded an increase in milk that continues to date.

In May 1992, Scott completed building concrete bunker silos and started TMR feeding instead of individually feeding grain and free choice feeding forage.

Currently, Scott is feeding a one group TMR which consists of haylage, corn silage, corn, and Purina's Hi-Energy 35% Concentrate. The cows above 70# of the milk are also fed Purina's Test Cow B 22% FF in the milking barn.
